MOUNT MEENAGHA HOUSE IS SOLD

One of the largest real estate deals in the history of Ellenville was consummated on Wednesday, when Abraham Klotz of New York City purchased the famous Mount Meenagha House. The amount involved is said to be about $150,000.
Mt. Meenagha is the pioneer summer resort of that section, the building up of which was nearly the life work of U. E. Terwilliger. His son H. B. Terwilliger conducted the resort after his father.
The new management will take possession on Saturday, June 10, upon which date preparation had been made for opening this resort.

IRISH SITUATION REMAINS ACUTE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 2.—The advisability of a British military offensive campaign against the Irish Republicans on the Ulster frontier is under consideration by the war office today. Following a conference with Earl Balfour, acting foreign minister, Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster, made the following statement to the International News Service:
"It has been decided to place entire control of the British troops in Ulster in the hands of the British war office which will decide whether it is necessary to take the offensive against the Republicans or cross the Ulster border into the Free State."
It is reported that British troops quartered at Newry have been rushed from that city to the district of Louth to aid hard-pressed constabulary who were engaged with the Republicans on a mile wide front.
At no time since the signing of the Anglo-Irish peace treaty, has the Irish situation been so acute.

FOUR CHANGES IN FORD'S NEW OFFER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—Congress will not reach a decision on disposal of the government's Muscle Shoals nitrate project at the present session. It was declared today by congressional leaders. The action of Henry Ford in challenging congress to an immediate decision of his revised offer, while disconcerting his opposition, will not bring about a favorable decision, according to house leaders. At the same time, the senate is only waiting the appearance of the army appropriation bill in order to vote $7,500,000 for resumption of work at Muscle Shoals by government engineers. This action by the senate, it was declared, would preclude any decision on Ford's offer until next year.

Ford's revised offer, which he declared would be "final," was formally presented to the house military affairs committee today by William B. Mayo, his chief of engineers.
Four distinct changes marked Ford's new offer. These were a guarantee to manufacture fertilizers at Muscle Shoals; an agreement to put additional capital into the project; a concession of more supervising power to the government; and his agreement to accept the government-owned part of the Gorges plant instead of the complete plant.

In the revised offer, it was said Ford guarantees an annual production of 40,000 tons of fixed nitrogen, unless prevented by acts of providence. He also agreed, it was said, to investing at least $10,000,000 in cash.

SIX RACING BALLOONS YET UNACCOUNTED FOR

UNTERMYER BEGINS STEEL INQUIRY

Gary Asked About Mergers Proposed and Topping and Dinkey are Criticized.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 2.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, was questioned by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Lockwood Lackawanna-Bethlehem and the three-company merger announced by Thomas L. Chadbourne, when he took the witness stand today in the resumed steel merger hearings before the committee.
John A. Topping, chairman of the board of directors of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, and A. C. Dinkey, president of the Midvale Steel & Ordnance Company, were severely criticized by Untermyer when the hearings were resumed by the committee today. Mr. Untermyer scored the testimony given yesterday by the two steel heads that there were no plans formulated or amounts fixed regarding the three-cornered proposed merger of the two foregoing steel company officers, and the Inland Steel Company.

After reading yesterday's testimony given by Mr. Dinkey in which he said that the merger was merely under discussion, Mr. Untermyer, addressing the committee, said:
"Hardly had they left the witness stand when a formal announcement was made regarding the proposed merger stating the amount, stock and all details."
"These gentlemen have not been very frank with the committee. They have been communicated with and asked to come back. I am going to require them to explain their action, this committee is not going to be trifled with."

Judge Gary admitted that the United States Steel Corporation had an advantage of $3 per ton in the selling price of steel products over independents because of the advantage in transportation facilities. The steel head declared that bidding for structural steel will be limited by the proposed mergers of different steel companies and admitted under questioning by Untermyer that competition had been lessened by the formation of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Gary declared in reply to Untermyer's questions that J. P. Morgan & Company "certainly did not" direct the U. S. Steel Corporation and that J. P. Morgan alone was not instrumental in appointments of directors and the finance commission, the most important committee of the organization. Under repeated and insistent questioning, by the Lockwood committee counsel, Judge Gary admitted that the sanction of J. P. Morgan was sought before such appointments were made.

To illustrate that J. P. Morgan did not have the entire say in the appointments, Mr. Gary said during the past year, he disagreed with Mr. Morgan over the filling of three vacancies on the board and his appointments were approved by Morgan. The bank balance of the steel corporation, Judge Gary testified on January 1st of this year was $125,000,000. Of this amount $8,000,000 was on deposit with J. P. Morgan & Company on which the steel corporation received 2.5 per cent interest.

Untermyer then called the steel corporation head's attention to the fact that J. P. Morgan & Company was loaning money on call in Wall street at four and six per cent while they were only paying the steel corporation 2.5 per cent interest.
"Do you not think this is a vicious practice?" Untermyer asked.
"Well, all banks do the same thing," Gary replied.

Judge Gary was asked what the surplus of the steel corporation was. He faltered and finally declared he couldn't remember. Untermyer was insistent and declared:
"Can you approximate it at about ten millions or fifty millions or a hundred millions of the sum?"

UNTERMYER.—"No," the judge replied.

Gary finally declared he "guessed" it was about $400,000,000, but that it "might be more than $500,000,000."
Gary testified that the United States Steel Corporation earned more in proportion in 1921 than in 1920, when the total sales were twice the amount in 1921. In 1921, the judge declared, the steel corporation was operating at 45 per cent of capacity and had earnings of $92,000,000 on sales of $565,000,000. In 1920, operating at full capacity and with sales of $1,200,000,000, the earnings were $180,000,000.

The new reductions will average five cents per hour and are expected to take effect on July 1, like those already ordered for the maintenance of way employees.

QUESTION TWO IN WARD CASE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Stamford, Conn., June 2.—Sheriff George L. Werner, Raymond Hill and Frederick Ruscoe of Westchester county, following a conference here with Acting Chief of Police John B. Burnham today, began an inquiry of Charles Rogers, a well known local ex-service man, and member of a family formerly prominent, who was brought to police headquarters for questioning. The deputies told Chief Burnham that James J. Cunningham, detained in New York, said that Joe Jackson, one of the men alleged to have been shot in the Ward-Peters case, was brought to a sanitarium in this city by a Charles Rogers who drove a Hudson car. The description of Rogers, said to have been furnished by Cunningham, was that of a man 34 years of age, and weighing 130 pounds. The Charles Rogers who is being questioned here, is a man weighing about 200 pounds. He drives a Hudson car and has been in the habit of hanging about the place where the Ward Bakery Company drivers make their headquarters here. The police are also questioning James J. Cunningham, a track hanger-on, and former private detective, who was arrested at a material witness after telling a story in which he claimed to know the details of the killing of Peters.

TESTIMONY AT WRECK INQUEST

Work Train Conductor Received Two Orders on the Correct Interpretation of Which, Apparently, Hinges Responsibility.

From the testimony brought out at the inquest held at Hobart on Wednesday by Coroner Grover Silliman of Delhi, to ascertain the cause of the wreck on the Ulster & Delaware railroad near Grand Gorge in which six trackmen lost their lives, it would indicate that the crew of the work train had confused two orders. The first order from the train dispatcher required protection against extra train after 10:20 o'clock and the second order after 11:30 o'clock. The wreck occurred about 11:25 o'clock according to the testimony of Conductor Guy B. Mattice of Oneonta, who had charge of the work train.

The Oneonta Star's Hobart correspondent in reporting the inquest states:

The most important witness, so far as light upon the cause of the wreck is concerned, was Conductor Guy B. Mattice, residing at 3 Hickory street, this city, who was the conductor in charge of the work train. That train was backing up to take a siding at Grand Gorge, having been at work between that station and Loxbury when extra freight train 22, south bound, crashed into it, killing the six men who were riding in the caboose and were crushed to death between the locomotive of the freight train and the hoisting crane in the work train.

Mr. Mattice had received two train orders for the movement of the work train. The first order, according to the testimony of Mr. Mattice, which was undisputed, directed that he "work until 11:30 o'clock, but protect against extra 22; south bound, after 10:20 a. m. The second order was to work from 11:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. and to protect against extra 22 after 11:30 a. m. The second order, according to the understanding of Mr. Mattice, superseded the first, in so far as it required him to protect against 22 south bound, and permitted him to use the track until 11:30 o'clock. He had started for Grand Gorge at 11:22 a. m. and, according to his testimony, the wreck occurred at 11:25 o'clock.

According to the version of others, Mr. Mattice got the two orders confused. In their evidence it was stated that the first order was for the movement of the train prior to 11:30 o'clock, and the second order was to control the operation of the train after 11:30 and up to and including 3 o'clock.

About 25 witnesses were heard at the inquest which was held behind closed doors. Among those who gave their versions of the accident were Conductor Mattice and Engineer A. J. Pelham of Kingston, who were in charge of the work train; Conductor Joseph Redmond of this city and Engineer Neebe of Kingston, who were in charge of the coal train which plunged into the rear end of the work train; the train dispatcher at Kingston; Messrs. Welch and Merithew, operators at Stamford and Grand Gorge, respectively; Edward and Abram Enderlin of Grand Gorge, who helped remove the bodies; Photographer Burtis of Stamford, who photographed scenes of the wreck, and several others who, in one way or another, had knowledge of conditions at the scene of the wreck.

District Attorney A. L. O'Connor appeared for the People and assisted Coroner Silliman in the examination of the witnesses. Harry H. Flemming of Kingston and Judge J. P. Grant of Stamford appeared for the railroad company, and Ralph S. Ives of Roxbury for certain relatives of men who lost their lives in the accident.

Coroner Silliman stated he would not be able to render his verdict until he had had the testimony written out and had reviewed it, and that it would not be completed until next Tuesday or Wednesday.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 2.—Negotiations of international bankers regarding a $1,000,000,000 consortium for Germany, have struck a snag and there were indications today that the Germans will not get a great international loan despite the favorable reply they have returned to the demands of the Inter-Allied reparations commission.

DEFIANT BOYS CAUSE ABRAHAMOWITZ TO BAR ALL

Abraham Abramowitz of 195 Albany avenue, owner of the large estate of the late George J. Smith, says he intends to have arrested trespassers on his property. Last year a field of growing corn was destroyed by boys, a valuable tree ruined by the and considerable damage done to his property. He heretofore made no objection to the boys going over his farm lands to the Escopus creek to bathe or to go in swimming but when the boys were requested to stop destroying growing crops they became defiant and used very bad language. He says he has placed his grievance with the city judge who will see that any of the trespassers on the Abramowitz lands who are arrested will be dealt with according to law if found guilty.

WALSH WARNS SENATE OF BONUS OPPOSITION

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—A warning that the prospective bonus legislation was "certain to encounter many difficulties before its final passage," and any attempt to postpone the consideration of it until after the tariff bill is disposed of, would impair its enactment at this session, was voiced by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, a Democratic member of the senate finance committee in a statement issued today.
"The opposition to bonus legislation is powerful enough, although when the final vote is taken, its opponents will be comparatively few," said Walsh.

WILL CONTINUE PUBLIC MARKET

Local market growers at a meeting at the court house Thursday evening voted to continue the public market which was so successful last year. This summer it will be located on Cornell street a short distance from Broadway. Next Thursday is expected to see a variety of early fruits and vegetables on sale there. So far this year there has been little to sell from local truck gardens which accounts for the small business thus far done at the market.

YOUNG BOY HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Watchmen Jordan and Smith Flashed Him Out.

Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock Watchman David Smith of the Cornell Towing Company while walking along the dock on the Rondout creek near the hand ferry used to convey the workmen from the Strand to the Island Dock, heard a splash nearby and running to the scene called out to Watchman Thomas H. Jordan of Meadow street that some one had fallen overboard. The one who caused the splash was a young boy named Brodhead residing on West Strand. In trying to leap from the dock into a small boat the lad misjudged the distance and landed in the water. As the lad was going down for the third time Jordan reached out an oar and the lad managed to grasp hold of it and was pulled safely to shore, and revived.

MRS. PFROMMER ALLEGES FRAUD

Starts Action to Set Aside Conveyance of Property Which She Says Husband Induced Her to Make by False Promises.

Papers have been filed in the Ulster county clerk's office in an action brought by Mrs. Anna C. Pfommer against Joseph F. Pfommer, her husband, to set aside and declare void a conveyance by the plaintiff to one Schuster of property on Brewster street and conveyed in turn by Schuster to Pfommer.

Mrs. Pfommer's complaint, which is on file, states that she and her husband were owners as tenants by the entirety of the property in question at the time she was induced to make the transfer of her interest on the ninth of May, this year.

time, she alleges, there had been unhappy differences between her and her husband and that on or about the time mentioned he asked her to convey to him her interest in the property, and promised, and agreed that their differences and unpleasantness would be forgiven, settled and condoned and they would live together happy and contented as husband and wife.

Relying on that promise and agreement, she says, she went to the office of her husband's lawyer and at the request of her husband she executed a deed for the premises to one Schuster, a clerk in the office of the attorney for her husband, and Schuster executed a deed to Pfommer.

She alleges that the representations, promises and agreements made to her were made with intent to deceive and defraud her and to obtain her property, and were known by her husband to be false and fraudulent and were made to trick, deceive and to take the property from her. She executed the deed in reliance on the promises and agreements, she says, and is now willing to perform her such and every part of the agreement.

Her husband, she alleges, in violation of the agreement, and on or about the 11th day of May, stated to her that he had her where he wanted her and would not live with her and would have nothing to do with her as he now had the property, and he has refused and neglected since to perform and complete his part of the agreement and understanding and still refuses to do so. Therefore, Mrs. Pfommer asks that the conveyance made by her to Schuster and by Schuster to Pfommer be set aside. William D. and William B. Brannier, Jr., are attorneys for Mrs. Pfommer.

Mr. Pfommer conducts a plumbing, tinning, heating and sheet metal work business at No. 73 Brewster street.

ANTS OVERRUN LOVELY ISLE

Peas From Argentina Have Completely Wiped Out Bird Life in Madeira—Spread Plant Diseases.

L. R. Lefroy, lecturing at the British Royal Institute the other day, mentioned that the Argentine ant has spread over half the world since 1897. He gave an example of the mischief wrought by the ant in the fact that it has completely wiped out the birds of Madeira by eating their nestlings.

Only those who have lived in a country overrun by ants know the full horror of it.

The housekeeper must reckon, as a necessity of annual expenditure, carbolic acid, petroleum and other protectives against the all-pervading insects.

Every table, every bed, must stand with its legs in little tins of petroleum, or the ants will swarm up.

Mothers anxiously visit the cradles of their babies to see that no bedclothes are touching the floor, or a black string of ants will be seen hurrying up the "bridge" at once.

You can never leave any article of food unprotected anywhere in Madeira, or it would be swarming with ants in a few minutes.

The ants have not only introduced into Madeira the greedy, which all the world knows the "milk" like cows, but they have also brought with them the horrible plant diseases of scale and black rust.

These have killed off many orange and coffee trees, and the pomegranate has completely disappeared from the island.

But even this devastating insect has one good quality. The ant is an excellent scavenger.

NOT THE PHILOSOPHER'S IDEA

Small Girl Gave Peculiar Twist to Proverb That Some of Us May Remember.

A Philadelphia school teacher was quoting to her pupils the sayings of various wise men touching the value of silence on certain occasions, when she gave them the proverb to the effect that we have one mouth and two ears, in order that we may listen twice as much as we speak.

A day or so after the instruction, the teacher, to see how well the lesson had been learned, asked a girl pupil the question, as above.

Little Lulu had forgotten the philosopher's maxim; but the question did not seem a difficult one to answer.

"Because," she said, "we should not have room in our face for two mouths, and we should look too crooked if we had only one ear."

"No, Lulu," said the teacher, "that is not the reason. Perhaps Marie can tell us."

"Yesum," said Marie, "it's that way so we can let what we hear go in at one ear and out at the other!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Great Britain Bans Feathers.

No more feathers can enter Great Britain now that the plumage prohibition bill is in force. Women who have feathers in their hats are the envy of their friends and osprey feathers, bird of paradise plumes, and all kinds of furs will shortly be worth their weight in five-pound notes. African ostriches and elder ducks are the only exceptions to the law, as the plumage of both species can be obtained without cruelty while they are moulting. The new law does not apply to passengers coming into the country with feathers as part of their personal apparel. Birds of paradise recently have been killed at the rate of 80,000 a year in full breeding plumage, and as many as 300,000 albatrosses were killed in one raid in the Pacific. Florida has been swept clean of egrets, whose colonies of these birds having been hatched at the breeding season to obtain the feathers sometimes known as "ospreys."

Are the Pleiades Dimmer?

The question presents itself whether three stars of the constellation of the Pleiades have less brilliancy than formerly, or whether prehistoric man had a better sight than ours, or if he was wont to climb up the mountains to examine the nearest stars, or if the atmosphere of past ages was purer than ours?

This problem arises from the fact that we see from below only seven of the stars of the Pleiades and that the last three stars can only be seen by ascending to the highest summits, while there have just been discovered stones dating from prehistoric times upon which the ten stars are engraved.

This interesting question in astronomy and archeology has been broached to the French Academy of Sciences by M. Bigourdan.

Magician.

Kellar, magician, died at the age of seventy-three. In his prime he was the greatest sorcerer among the billion and a half people living on earth.

From his life we learn this: People who saw Kellar marvelled at his magic. Yet they knew that it's all a trick.

Only a few centuries ago—a short period in the history of man—magicians were taken seriously, looked on as supernatural.

Science and education rapidly are eliminating man's gullibility, the basis of many forms of slavery.

Secret of Eskimo Health.

The Eskimos are naturally one of the healthiest peoples in the world. The School of Hygiene of the Johns Hopkins university will send out an expedition to study dietetics and nutrition among the Eskimos.

Jarrah Wood Offers Dessay.

The Jarrah of western Australia produces the most indestructible wood grown. It is impervious alike to insect attacks and to decay, and boasts built of it do not need to be copper-sheathed.

FINAL SEASON'S D. A. R. MEETING

Owing to a change in the date of the annual meeting of the D. A. R. Chapters to May the meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter held on Thursday afternoon was the first of the new year as well as the last of the season. At this meeting, besides the musical program, annual reports were given by the recording secretary, Mrs. James W. Scott; by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Elva Bogart; the registrar, Mrs. T. D. Lewis; the treasurer, Mrs. Frank Merritt; the treasurer of the Old Stone House Fund, Mrs. Hyman Rosen; by the chairman of the Americanization Committee, Miss Edith Holmes (a particularly interesting report); by the auditing committee, Mrs. T. V. R. Browne, chairman; and by the historian, Miss Baker, which will be printed in Saturday's Freeman.

A complete list of the various committees as appointed by the regent, Mrs. Fessenden, will also appear in a subsequent issue of the Freeman.

The regent, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, reminded all present of the invitation to visit New Paltz, at the home of Mrs. Frank J. La Fave, on Flag Day, June 14th, and also of the conference of Hudson Valley D. A. R. Chapters to be held at Wiltwyck Chapter House on June 21st. The Poughkeepsie and Beacon Chapters have already accepted the invitation.

Two gifts were received from Miss Mary A. Schaeffer, a pewter tankard and a Britannia coffee-pot, the Chapter expressing its gratitude for and appreciation of the gift.

The afternoon's program was in charge of Mrs. Arthur V. Hoornbeck of Ellenville, the very large number in attendance greatly enjoying all of the following numbers:

Reading—"Legend of the Birds of Killingworth".....Longfellow
Mrs. Hornbeck.
Soprano Solo—"At Dawning".....Cadman

Miss Bertha Demarest.
Reading from "The Taming of the Shrew"

Miss Ella De Vany.
Soprano Solo—"Little Rose of May"
Miss Demarest.

Reading—"Apple Blossoms".....Miss De Vany.
Soprano Solo—"The Last Song".....Mrs. Bertram Wood accompanied by Miss De Vany.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Roscoe Irwin and Miss Katherine Burhans.

Love Made All Things Possible.

Before the birth of love, many fearful things took place through the empire of necessity; but when this god was born all things rose to man.—Socrates.

TEXACO MOTOR OIL

CLEAR
Clean
Clear
Full-bodied

Clean, clear, full-bodied. Watch the golden color when it is poured into your motor. It's unmistakable.

Then watch your motor respond—and keep responding. Step on the gas; you'll never have a carbon knock. Throttle down—not a cylinder missing, not an uncertain moment. Every spark plug clean, no hard carbon and more power than you ever thought you had.

Light, medium, heavy and extra-heavy, it fits all cars and all conditions.

Drain out all the old oil in your crank-case. Refill with Texaco Motor Oil, and start out with a car that will deliver all the power and life its maker built into it.

HOUSE AND SUIT

Jacket Added, Suit Is Stamped as Three-Piece Costume.

Sleeveless Garments, Made on Cape Line With Undulating Fullness—Flowing Sleeves Smart.

That there is a relationship between the blouse and the suit, is not denied, though the three-piece costume, so called, doesn't always mean a costume of three pieces. If a dress has an accompanying jacket, then the fact that the dress is a combination of bodice and skirt, the addition of a jacket immediately stamps it as a three-piece costume. In this respect there is a great diversity, and even though the dress is more often worn than the blouse and skirt, the direct suggestion of the blouse is there.

Then, too, the variety of fabrics in which the three-piece garments are made, trends being generally favored, provides the blouse with "more words to say." A three-piece suit of black tulle cloth, for instance, with its black sleeves of rosiné or marocain crepe in royal blue, readily suggests the sort of a blouse to go with a similarly skirted model.

The sleeveless frocks of tweed are excellent for the tailored type of blouse, while suits of cordine tricot or (will), with their varied embroideries of black satin or grosgrain ribbon sometimes touched with tinsel thread effects, suggest to the woman who is to wear it, just the type of blouse—perhaps similarly trimmed—to combine in a three-piece costume effect.

Just as there are sleeveless frocks, so there are sleeveless jackets. These jackets are made on cape lines, with undulating fullness at the lower edge, and here the flowing sleeves add to the smartness of the ensemble.

This feature indirectly marks the entrance of flowing sleeves to things fundamentally tailored as well as essentially dressy and has its influence on blouses to accompany the sleeveless jacket not entirely severe in line.

The three-piece costumes show interesting recognition of the importance of the sleeve portion of the dress or blouse beneath, and many of the seven-eighths jacket sleeves are made this length intentionally, and widened to show the puff of the long-sleeved blouses of the peasant styles worn underneath. The use of black and white as a color note is a feature of the new spring modes, and the piece costumes show an interesting recognition of the importance of the sleeve portion of the dress or blouse.

Another suit development which has recently found favor is the knicker type. But this requires a different blouse from the models suggested by the tailored suits, the simple tuck-in shirt being an appropriate complement.

AN AFTERNOON DRESS

This afternoon dress of brilliant design is of gay faillie crepe with under-appeal of salmon crepe shown in all on right side of dress which is embroidered in salmon. The long puffed sleeve lined with salmon crepe all the way down the shoulder is attractive.

Silk Capes.

Silk capes are among the sensations of the new season. There will be many of them and in many designs. It is because the silks are so heavy and luxurious that these wraps have achieved such prominence. We are accustomed to hear women complain that the silk wrap does not give enough warmth for enough occasions, but these new ones seem to have broken away entirely from that objection, for they have a great deal of body in themselves and they are so designed that several layers of the silk help them to achieve weight and purpose.

Tan Underwear.

It is very new. Women are wild over it. It is a more delicate shade than the heaves father used to wear. It is made of georgette or of some of the self-striped washable satins. Watercolor or Mary blue ribbons are used with it, and sometimes ecru lace.

Danger in Too Much Talk.

Talkative people who wish to be loved are hated; when they desire to please, they bore; when they think they are admired, they are laughed at; they injure their friends, benefit their enemies, and ruin themselves.—Plutarch.

FRENCH NOTE IN SPRING CLOTHES

Paris Dressmakers Are Not Clinging to Any Particular Mode for the Season.

TESTED STYLES HOLD FAVOR

Models Include Excellencies of Proved Fashions—Both Short and Long Skirts Are Shown—Sleeves of All Types.

Street Dress Showing the Russian Influence in Sleeves—Blue Serge and Black Satin.

styles and the deficiencies and failures of none. Thus the dressmakers are showing both the short and the long skirt, with all varying degrees of length between the two extremes of high-shoe-top and floor-touching length. Likewise, the full gamut in sleeve variations is sounded. There are dresses entirely sleeveless and those with sleeves so long that they form twin trains. There is an indication that the wide sleeve is on the wane. The long, fitted sleeve is offered in its place, but that it will usurp the place of its predecessor is only a prediction. It remains for women to indicate which they prefer.

Worth makes a feature of fancy sleeves, some of which are very long—that is, much longer than the arm. One can scarcely imagine a lady dining in a dress of this sort with any degree of comfort, as the sleeves are usually gathered in the hand or held as a shawl or mantle. Worth is no exception in showing this type of exaggerated sleeve.

Renee gives to some of her models a distinct note of the Italian renaissance through sleeves which trail on the floor in the form of twin trains. One very striking model of this character in red satin shows sleeves solidly embroidered in white crystal beads, this embroidery weighting them so that they train in majestic fashion on either side of the wearer. The dress has no embroidery other than that on the sleeves. In spite of these long sleeves the arms are practically bare, as the sleeves are open from the shoulders.

Russian Note Prevails in Dress. The Russian influence is seen everywhere. There are dresses and suits of pure Russian style, many of them bearing significantly Russian names. Russian embroideries and Russian designs prevail more than any other kind of ornamentation. The color combinations found in trimmings and their mode of application in the form of broad girdles and the big plaqued-like ornamentations all show Russian artistry as the source of their inspiration.

In the use of materials there is the same variation in quantity or yardage employed. Some of the new dresses can still be cut from three and one-half meters, while in other models from five to six meters of two-yard-wide goods will be required. In point of decoration there is the same wide range of choice. There are dresses entirely devoid of trimmings and others so lavishly embellished that it is almost impossible to determine the nature of the original fabric or foundation which holds the garniture. In these various processes of elaboration the manufacturer of fabrics has taken no small part. Many of the new materials come from the looms beaded, embroidered with drawn threads, painted, corded, tucked, quilted, blistered, hammered, creped and crinkled until one wonders what they might have been in their pristine state.

No arbitrary decisions are made regarding color. All primaries are represented, together with a multitude of variations in art tones. Thus, there is the brilliant red of the spectrum, the natural, vital flame color and in its train numerous other reds having an admixture of yellow or of blue or of brown, thereby establishing several distinct red series of multiple tones. In rose shades there are geranium, coral and copper, each one in all possible diversity.

Navy Blue Again in Limelight. Deep royal blue is another favorite, especially in combination. As for beige and ecru, these tones are as the sands of the sea. There is not one that does not seem to have representation. Navy blue is coming back into its own, notably navy blue serge combined with red; also blue crepe marocain and crepe de chine three-piece suits. Black has its advocates. Gold and silver in both the bright and softened or vieille tones, together with steel, copper, bronze and gun metal, are very important.

A very large proportion of the new blouses, whether they are separate or designed for a special suit or are a part of a three-piece costume, are Russian. From a fashion standpoint there is an interesting trend toward the use of the blouse. This has been brought about by the fact that all of the great French dressmakers in their recent openings stressed the tailored suit and also because of the real Russian blouses, which became the rage through being sponsored by the best-dressed women in Paris.

Distinctly new in both cotton and silk blouses for spring are the Russian models embroidered in designs taken from Russian documents. Many of the new models are made of cotton crepe, which makes them more than ever resemble the Russian peasant garments, despite their Paris origin. Any number of these are being brought out by French manufacturers and selling in quantities for distribution in large American stores. They are worn with white serge as well as with white cotton skirts for sport wear.

Among the materials used in blouses are white organdie embroidered in deep yellow, yellow tussah embroidered in white and yellow linen. There are the pure white crepe de chine and crepe georgette blouses. One interesting tailored model is of fine white linen stitched in lines imitating Scotch plaid. There are blouses made of printed mouseline and then there are the pure white, exquisitely made, linen blouses of the type known as chemisier; that is to say, shirtwaist.

Blue Enamel Trim Black Slippers.

A Paris shoemaker is featuring slippers of patent leather with designs in colored enamel. Small wreaths of flowers form buckles at the front and straps at the sides. Other models show straps which cross and button high on the sides. These are made of the enameled leather, the designs being in conventional flowers. The buttons are in the predominating color of the decoration, usually red or blue. Bright blue decorations are the smartest and most popular on black shoes. One sees wonderful white shoes with blue forget-me-nots forming the decoration for straps and buckles. Red shoes are also well liked, as well as black shoes stitched with red and green.

Bootmakers are among the most versatile people in the world. Why, when they have shown themselves able to create so many astonishing things in the way of footwear, they should for so long have held to conservative shoes and slippers is a mystery. Even the dressmaker of today is scarcely able to keep pace with the clever modern shoemaker.

NEW STUNNING SPORT MODEL

This winsome new sport model is made more attractive by the addition of linen collars and cuffs edged with black taffeta. The costume is in brown sponges. The cape falls in points on either side and ties are fringed, as is the bottom of the skirt.

ORNAMENTS FOR THE GOWNS

Original Trimmings Featured by Majority of the French Dressmakers; Many Beads Used.

The matter of trimmings, even in a trimmingsless season, is something that concerns the Parisian dressmakers most sincerely. For, whatever they are or wherever they are placed, they must be perfectly done. And it is these touches which ravish us as we see them appearing on the new French frocks. They are so very original and so inspiring to the creation of dress in this country, no matter what may be said to the contrary.

There are loads of steel beads—nail heads they are called. There are little rows of corrugated trimmings—that is, ribbons and narrow pieces of silk either to match the dress in color or to contrast with it in some way.

Egyptian bandings in the way of girdles or belts are made up from the handsomest of beadings and embroideries. On a blue serge dress there is a stunning girdle of Egyptian red.

There are many fringes seen upon the more dressy gowns, and any amount of crystal beads have been imposed upon the surfaces of the more formal wearing apparel. In fact, each designer is trying, it seems, as far as possible to make use of the gown's own material in the making of trimmings, and when that contingency fails they resort to some spangled or some embroidered ornament to make the gown more notable.

DRESSES FOR THE KIDDIES

Dotted Swiss and Pongee Are Among the Favorite Materials for the Little Folks.

For very little folk, ranging from two to six-year sizes, dotted swiss and pongee are two well-liked fabrics.

Dotted swiss, either in white with pastel colored dots or darker shades, like red or brown, speckled in white, appears with marked frequency. In the lighter colored numbers a popular mode of embellishment is the smocking in colored mercerized threads matching the color of the dots, forming yokes. One dress noted in brown, dotted in white, was trimmed with rows of insertion and edging of fillet lace, insuring the laundering possibilities of the frock.

Striped handkerchief linen or dimity, in rather broad and bold stripings, also appear in the group for small people. When these stripes are selected for the fabric, the choice is invariably for tucked devices.

In the pongees, worsted embroideries are the favorite usage, forming yokes and accenting pocket contrivances.

FLOWER APPLIQUES FOR TRIM

Dainty, Old-Fashioned Bouquet, With Lace Paper Edges, Now Adorns the Blouse.

The dainty, old-fashioned bouquet with its lace paper edges that experienced such a revival in the trimming of handmade handkerchiefs now comes to adorn the blouse. Sometimes the flowers are of wool and sometimes in fabric or a cluster of both with the lace paper imitated by a frill of three-fourths-inch valenciennes. Here the corsage is, of course, much larger and is properly posed at the waistline of the blouse.

In other flower trims on blouses, all sorts of fabrics and manipulations are used, from twists of self-material on crepe de chine, made into bunchy flower motifs, to flat overlapping layers of picot-edged organdie, which is often used on silk blouses.

Colors in Millinery. Millinery colors attract bright red, American Beauty and almond green. Tangerine, sage and periwinkle are also popular.

LATE PARIS HATS

Headgear for New Season Must Be Large, Makers Say.

For Younger Girls There Are Many Models Trimmed With Strings of Flowers.

The Parisian makers that the hat of the new season shall be large. Then, even if it is a small hat, it is still large, which sounds like a paradox, but which is so, nevertheless. The small hats have larger contours. They are more ample—not held so closely to the head.

Of course, observes an authority, the French hat is not an easy matter to describe. It is an illusive thing without so very much that is conspicuously notable about it, but with so much subtlety and so much charm that its description becomes something to elude one completely. At each of the Parisian hat shops something new is seen to charm one's sight and to lure one into the spending of much money for these head fixings which are so delightful to contemplate, let alone to wear.

Some of the hats have large bows of malines tied so that their loops reach far beyond the confines of the brim. This trick is again repeated with lace either in black or in some of the dyed shades that are so fashionable for the afternoon and evening dresses.

Rose is the color that is most favored for those which are called sport hats. It is a deep tone of rose that verges upon the cerise and for a certain type of young person there could be nothing better. One of these, in a soft and pliable felt, was worn with a blue-gray tweed suit and a gray fox fur, and the effect was something that might be desired by any woman who could possibly afford to wear the combination.

The period of 1890-1898 has been reverted to by one maker, and on most of his hats there will be found cascades of lace falling down at either side of the face to touch the shoulder and even to fall below that point.

Another has chosen to accompany many of his suits with little soft and pliable hats made of the same material as the suit. Often they are embroidered by way of trimming, and again they are supplied with the faintest note of trimming applied at one side or directly in the front.

DRESSES FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Tan-Colored Cotton Crepe and Pink Crepe de Chine Fashioned Into Chic Models.

An unusually pretty little dress for a child of four, seen recently, was made of tan-colored heavy cotton crepe. The yoke and sleeves were attached to the dress proper by means of crocheting done in brown wool. The hem was cut apart from the skirt and then fastened back with the crocheting. A simple stitch was used so that the general effect was that of hem-stitching done with wool floss.

A clever party dress for a small girl, shown by the same designer, was of pale pink crepe de chine, made on simple lines. The sleeves were ruffled almost to the shoulder with half-inch dainty white lace and the same trimming was used about the skirt and bloomers. With this dress was worn a pink taffeta hat with a flower streamer at one side. The crown and upper brim were covered entirely with narrow taffeta or scalloped, so that a flower petal effect was suggested.

CAPEs FOR DRESS OCCASIONS

Bright Color and Pastel Taffetas Are Popular for Garments for Evening Wear.

In the cape models for evening wear bright color and pastel taffetas are popular. These are usually quite full and wrap about the figure almost shawl fashion. The collar may be of ostrich in matching shade or a full, self-fringed ruche of the taffeta may form a collar.

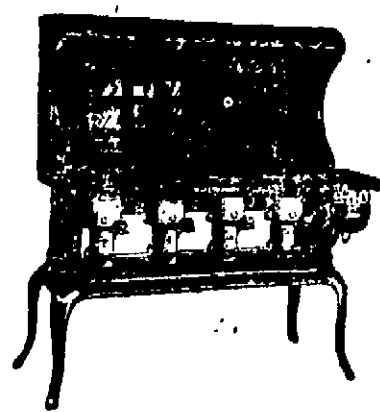

Black satin or silk evening wraps, lined with bright color silk, are also popular. A number of these dark colored models have deep, wide veils of self fabric, sometimes stitched or braided.

Daytime wraps run to both flared and straight-line models. The widely circular cape, made of round material hollowed out for the neck and slit down the front or side, is among the striking models, these often appearing in sport fabric.

The Kingly Eagle. Eagles have been known to attack full-grown sheep and even stags; but the stories of their carrying off children should be taken with a grain of salt, for, like nearly all the creatures of the wild, the eagle will attack man only in self-defense. He is the unquestioned king of birds. There are many larger and more powerful than he, but none of them has the courage, the swiftness or the majestic carriage of the eagle. Ever since man was man the eagle has appealed to him as a creature of romance. Legends and fables about him abound in all languages. All the world over you will find the eagle as the symbol of nobility. The Indian chief wears a head-dress of eagle's feathers as a mark of his high position.

The King Snake's Dinner. A "Companion boy" who, lived in Missouri, and who has been reading the paper since he was a little shaver, writes to tell us what he knows about the cannibalistic habits of snakes. As my brothers and I were cooking hay in a clover field, he writes, we found a king snake basking in the July sun; he was too lazy and full to move. Being curious to know what he had devoured, we cut him open. To our astonishment we found that he contained a black snake 28 inches long, more than one inch longer than himself; and inside the black snake we found a mouse and a grasshopper. The head and neck of the black snake were purple and indicated that the king snake had killed it.—Youth's Companion.

Yucatan's Influence. Henequen means reasonably cheap and plentiful binder twine; while binder twine makes possible the use of harvesting machines; harvesters cheapen grain production; cheap grain means cheap bread, and so henequen—and arid Yucatan—play important parts in feeding America and the world. Henequen, which is a sort of cactus not unlike the century plant or the "palm cactus" in appearance, has been grown in Yucatan since prehistoric times and its fiber was used in local plantation and village industries. But there was no outside market of considerable magnitude for the fiber until the increasing use of harvesting machinery in the United States created a demand for larger quantities of binder twine.

Victor Hugo's Historic Funeral. The largest funeral ever held in France, and probably the largest in the history of the world, was that of Victor Hugo, the great poet, author and dramatist, who died in May, 1885, and was buried in the Pantheon the first of the following June. At the head of the funeral procession were three enormous wagons filled with floral tributes, among them a huge diadem of Irish lilies with the inscription "To the World's Greatest Poet," sent by Lord Tennyson, poet-laureate of England. Telegrams were received from virtually all the prominent men alive, and the number of spectators was estimated at 1,000,000, of all classes and kinds, all striving to do homage to the memory of the dead writer.

Averages. The law of averages is mathematical in its accuracy. When a scientifically managed chain store system wants to open a new shop, it has "clockers" count the passing crowds, to learn what location has the most traffic flowing past its doors. It is definitely known that a set percentage of the passers-by will turn into the new store. This is the law of averages—that, while a thing may not happen repeatedly, it will show up, on the average, every-so-often. Gamblers use the law of averages, figuring systems to beat the bank at Monte Carlo. It is a law that should be taken into consideration in all proposed undertakings.

Cold Sweets for Cold Souls. A correspondent, whose initials we withhold lest his wife should recognize them, writes as follows: "On a drug store window recently opposite the Transcript is a card telling us to 'Take home an Iceberg.' Should some of us married men do so on our way home late from—or 'the office'—it would simply be taking one Iceberg to another."—Boston Transcript.

LITTLE, BUT VERY PRACTICAL

Occasionally the Small People Have Exceedingly Comprehensive Ideas About Things Mundane.

"What a splendid big boy!" said a lady visitor, addressing the small son of a distinguished novelist, whom she found deep in an illustrated fairy tale. "And you can spell out what it says under the pictures, can't you, dear? Why, it won't be long before you'll enjoy the stories your papa writes as much as any one!"

The little fellow regarded her gravely. "The stories papa writes aren't meant to enjoy," he explained. "That's the stories he tells. The stories he writes are just to pay the butcher and the grocer!"

The caller was naturally quite shocked at the child's literal and mercenary acceptance of her favorite author's jocular way of referring—within the family circle—to his literary labors.

Many years ago a somewhat similar anecdote was related by the poet Bryant of his little daughter Julia. A neighbor, shown into the library where the little maiden sat solitary upon the floor, with a huge volume of Milton, with Dore's illustrations, spread open before her, inquired pleasantly, by way of greeting:

"Reading poetry, already, little girl?" Little Julia corrected her politely, but with authority:

"People don't read poetry. Pappas write poetry and mamma's sing poetry, and little girls learn to say poetry, but nobody reads poetry. That isn't what it's for!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

TWO MONTHS OF DAYLIGHT

Mystery and Witchery Offered to Travelers in the Land of the Midnight Sun.

There is always mystery and witchery to the people of temperate climes in thinking of the Land of the Midnight Sun, and accounts by travelers who have witnessed its rare beauties are welcome as a page from some romance.

From the end of May to the last days of July in Norway and Sweden the sun shines day and night without giving place to darkness. The stars are never seen during this time of continuous daylight, and the moon shines pale and cold. Summer is so short that the wild flowers have just enough time to grow, to bloom and to fade, and the farmer is barely able to gather in his harvest, which, however, is sometimes nipped by a summer frost.

The midnight sun passes and a few weeks later the hours of sunshine shorten rapidly, the air becomes chilly, and the nights colder, although the sun is warm during the day. All this happens by the middle of August, and then the grass turns yellow, the leaves change their color, wither and fall; the swallows and other migrating birds fly southward, twilight comes again, bringing the stars, one by one, which now shine brightly in the pale blue sky; the moon appears again as queen of the night, lighting and cheering the long, dark days of the Scandinavian winter.—New York Herald.

Repair Shops for Airplanes.

The enormous use of airplanes during the European war has resulted in an extensive use of special motor airplane repair shops. These portable airplane factories were first used by the French, and are marvels of ingenuity, for, in addition to carrying propellers and wings for airplanes, they are fitted with lathes, drilling machines, forges and in fact, most of the apparatus necessary to completely rebuild an airplane except, of course, the engine.

Fitted with powerful engines these airplane motors can get up a tremendous speed despite their weight, and are quickly on the scene of any air plane smash.

In the roofs of many of these motors, by the way, are windows or openings through which an observer can watch the flight of the airplanes.—Cleveland News-Leader.

A Futile Love.

Senator Borah said at a dinner in Boise:

"We all love peace, universal peace, yet we do nothing to hasten its advent. This makes us seem foolish and futile like the sailor."

"Two sailors in a sailors' boarding house got into an argument about the meat they were eating. The first said it was beef. The second said it was pork."

"Shiver me timbers, it's beef," said the first.

"It's pork, ye lubber," said the second.—A. I. pork.

"Well, it tastes like beef, anyway," said the first sailor. "But I hope you're right, for I love a bit of pork."

Ants Eat Flowers.

A new type of ant, large, vicious and prolific, is playing havoc with the flower industry of the Italian Riviera. Horticulturists are required to report the appearance of this pest immediately and to take prescribed steps for its destruction. The ants are supposed to have been introduced from the Argentine.—Scientific American.

The Flip Flapper.

"Now, Madge, I'm not squeamish, but if you want to make a good impression upon my aunt you've got to peel off some of that varnish. She doesn't so much as powder her nose."

"Why, Tommy, what a shining example of old-fashioned virtue your aunt must be!"—Judge.

FOR EAST IS EAST

This Chinaman Couldn't Understand "Foreign Devils."

His Description of Feast About as Homorous as if It Had Been Written With That Idea.

An old man, who declared he had been to Shanghai, told how the foreigners there feasted, according to "A Fornight on a Cargo Boat" by William L. Hall, in Asia Magazine. Men and women all sat together at a long table. The table wore white clothes and was covered with fine bowls and foreign chopsticks. A man would not sit by his own wife, but chose to sit by the wife of some other man. The men all drank wine out of foreign wine cups and before they drank they all stood up and held their cups out to the women. Some of the women had small wine cups and drank with the men. Some of the men smoked tobacco that was rolled into long tubes and others had their tobacco in rolls of white paper.

His cousin was working at the inn and he was invited into the kitchen, where they were washing the bowls and chopsticks. When the wine cups were brought in he tasted some of the wine that was left in the bottom of the cups. Soon after tasting the wine he forgot all about where he was and tried to go out into the street alone. He could not tell whether his feet were trying to climb up his body or his head was trying to bite his feet.

When the feast was eaten the men and women went into another room, where some foreign men were making a noise on all sorts of foreign frames. When the men made the noise all the people jumped up and ran about the floor. When the noise stopped they always stopped too, and then they would stand still and hit their hands together. Then the women would grab the arms of the men and they would all walk around the room, talking and laughing, until the noise began again. Some of the women had forgotten part of their clothing, but—so his cousin told him—they did it on purpose to please the men. When the noise was not going, or some of the men were not running about the floor with the women, they would go into another room and drink wine at a long high table. The men were always in a hurry to drink when they were at that high table; for they would pick up a glass, open their mouths and try to throw the wine down their throats.

When everybody was tired of running about the floor each man picked out his own wife and they went away in foreign carts. Some of the men, who had no wives, kept drinking the wine and burning the tobacco tubes until it was almost time for the city gates to open. Then they went off down the road, holding to one another's arms and all trying to sing a foreign song.

Where Radio Is Popular.

Observation from an elevated train shows that few blocks on which are homes or tenements lack wireless aerials, according to the New York Sun.

Third avenue especially is marked by radio. Wires run from poles on one roof to poles on another, from chimneys and cornices and all sorts of places where there seems a good location for the feelers that catch the messages from the air and carry them down to the receiving instruments. Aerials are of all types, one two, four and five strands clumsily made some of them others apparently the work of experts. Some are so small that one wonders how they ever attract a wireless message or telephone program. In any event it would seem that apartment house landlords once opposed to allowing tenants to erect aerials on the roofs have been won over.

Men's Styles.

Advance fashion notes from London say that trousers for the well-dressed man are to be cuffless this fall, and add that suspenders are coming back. Those men who never felt perfectly safe with a belt will be glad of the latter note. A good many more will say farewell to trouser cuffs without regret. They were always foolish.

About the suspenders there is a diversity of opinion. Certain types of the human race, called men, notably that one shaped like a lath with long growing lips will cheerfully throw away the belt and go back to the "ralluses" of his boyhood. That is an old institution that innumerable generations of men have persisted in sustaining, because although the blue arch of the wide heaven might fall, hitched up by suspenders their pants wouldn't.

A Comparison Urged.

"Is that you, John?" asked Mrs. Dubwaite over the telephone.

"Yes," said Dubwaite. "What's the nature of the touch?"

"Is your fashionable stenographer there?"

"Yes. What about her?"

"Nothing. Just look her over and then see if you can't come home to your own wife in a cheerful frame of mind. I've just bought myself a new outfit."

And They Reformed.

Young Lady—Do you object to a girl using a little paint and powder? Old Gentleman—No, not at all. And yet I can't get that not such a very long time ago red Indians were considered savage because they painted themselves.—London Answers.

THE THRILL

By MARY LOUISE CORMIER

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Letty, what are you doing in the parlor all this time?" Mrs. Harriet Parsons addressed her daughter from the kitchen. Receiving no response, her sharp old voice took on a querulous note. "My kingdom, I shouldn't think you'd want to be in the parlor anyway. It's cold as an icebox in there. Ain't you going to brew my tea, Letty? What are you staring out of that window for?"

"Nothing, mamma," Letty jerked down the roll curtain and shut off a scene which, to say the least, was distracting. The sight of Will Spence's roadster with Will at the wheel and fuzzy little Amelia Crews sitting beside him always stirred Letty's resentment. She stepped quickly into the kitchen, shutting the side door of the parlor behind her with unnecessary violence. Her mother stared curiously at the unaccustomed flush on her daughter's broad, freckled cheeks.

"You never can tell about men," she remarked, absently.

"Well, well, I don't know," she continued, shaking her head ruefully. "Don't know what, mamma?"

"I don't know who you take after, Letty."

"Perhaps," said Letty, humorously. "It's because I was such a pretty baby. You know the saying, mamma, about pretty babies growing into homely daughters."

"Well," sighed her mother. "It's a blessing that you can be so good natured about it."

As she walked jerkily along the elm-lined avenue on her nightly trip to the postoffice, Letty had plenty of time to think over the two short months she had lived in another world. No royal beauty could have been treated with more respect and homage. In her exaltation she refused to recognize danger signals until disaster was upon her. Then, in helpless anger, she watched Amelia, with her doll's face and pretty manners, deftly wean Will away from her.

Letty had now reached the stage when she expected to hear of their engagement at any moment. But she was scarcely prepared for the low car that drew up to the curb beside her, or for the familiar voice calling her name over the wheel.

"Letty," Will began, hesitantly, "if you're going to the postoffice I'd like to drive you down myself."

"Thanks, Will," Letty replied, as she climbed awkwardly into the machine.

"There's a social over at Long Meadow tomorrow," Will said, as the car sped along the quiet street. "You going, Letty?"

"Why, I guess not, Will."

"I was hoping you would go," he explained, talking hurriedly to cover his embarrassment. "I've got two tickets and—"

Letty twisted around with difficulty in the narrow seat and stared at him.

"Ain't 'Melia going tomorrow," she demanded. Will frowned.

"No," he responded, curtly, "not tomorrow—or any other day."

"Then," Letty agreed promptly, "I'd love to go with you, Will."

Will's renewed courtship was scarcely two weeks old when, by the death of his uncle, he found himself heir to a small fortune. Immediately he was overwhelmed with congratulations.

"I'd like you just as well without all that money, Will," Letty told him, wistfully. "You see, I've always been poor. And I couldn't enjoy wealth—not the way 'Melia does, I mean."

"Oh—Amelia!" Will's lip curled and his voice grew hard. "Let's not talk about her any more." But from that night the visits of Letty's aunts dwelled in number. Finally they ceased completely.

Being a comfortable, slow-moving sort, Letty never ceased to wonder at the rapidity with which things happen in this world. In the space of one breathless week, for instance, she had learned that Will's uncle had left a second will bequeathing his money to a public institution, that Amelia had promptly turned her back on young Spence, leaving him, in sheer desperation, to drive around all night in a chill rainstorm.

"Will's down with pneumonia," Letty explained to her mother. "I guess I'd better run over and see what I can do."

Mrs. Parsons stared.

"Letty, you're not! After the way he's treated you and all—"

"He's sick," Letty flung back, defiantly. "and that old housekeeper doesn't know anything about nursing sick people!" There was no question about Letty's ability. Only when little Doctor Cranston announced the passing of Will's crisis did Letty permit herself the luxury of tears. A few months later she became Mrs. Will Spence.

On the honeymoon trip to New York, Letty unburdened a matter that had weighed on her mind for a long time.

"I don't know what we'll do with all that money," she remarked.

"What money, Letty?" Will demanded.

"Why, the money from your uncle's legacy?"

"But there wasn't anything, you know, Uncle Dan—"

"I ought to have told you," Letty explained, smiling, "that there never was a second will. Your uncle's lawyer and I—well, we just sort of cooked up that story to test Amelia's character and—"

She did not finish the sentence. Just then the train entered a tunnel and Letty experienced the one genuine thrill in the life of a homely girl.

LIQUOR TOTERS SHERIFF'S GUESTS

Three Pedestrians and Their 20 Quarts of Stuff Labeled Whiskey Brought From Near Shaft 7 to County Jail.

The liquor storage warehouse located in the cellar of the Ulster county court house had added to its stock Thursday night about twenty quarts of alleged whiskey which, if the labels on the bottles are not counterfeit, might be "good stuff." Two members of the New York Board of Water Supply Police, David Drought and John Bazel, brought the bottles to Sheriff Kolls and brought also Henry Jackson, colored, aged 21, Frank Romano, aged 21, and Pasquale Russo, aged 21, who had been committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury for violation of the Mulford-Gage law in having had intoxicating liquor in their possession.

The men were arrested by B. W. S. Policemen David Drought, John Bazel and John Jansen, near Shaft 7, at Alhambra Thursday evening while they were carrying a black traveling bag and a good sized milk case. In the bag were three bottles of Medvale whiskey, according to the label, and two quarts of Guggenheimer whiskey, while in the milk case were eight quarts of liquid labeled "Old Taylor" and seven quarts of Medvale whiskey.

Later the men were hauled before Justice of the Peace Theodore Voss at Phoenixia for a hearing and they were held to await the action of the grand jury for violation of Section 1212, of the Mulford-Gage law, and brought to the Ulster county jail by the two patrolmen.

NO TARIFF BILL THIS SESSION, BELIEVES LENOIR.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—President Harding's long contemplated plan to visit Alaska late this summer was revised today as a distinct possibility, due to a growing sentiment among Republican leaders in congress that the tariff bill will not be passed at the present session.

Senator Lenoir, Republican, of Wisconsin, an administration leader, on leaving the White House following a conference with President Harding, expressed the belief that congress would not enact the measure at this session.

WEALTHY MRS. COSSITT WEDS HER CHAUFFEUR.

SHIPS THAT FATTEN SAILORS

Modern "Tankers" Are Now Blamed for Added Weight Taken On by the Seamen.

Shipping experts continue to argue regarding the advantages of oil fuel over coal. At present the question is occupying the attention of medical men.

The adverse effect of oil fuel upon such surfaces as steel, canvas, rope and other shipping accessories are widely known; ships' doctors are now divided on the question as to whether it is harmful or beneficial in its effect upon sailors, a writer in London "The Mirror" states.

Sailors on oil-fed vessels are fatter and plumper than those who work on coal-fed ships. Some naval surgeons declare that the fattening effect is produced by the slight fumes exuded by the dominant oil fuel; others, however, the suggestion, and maintain that the former are fat simply because they have less work to do.

"Coal-burning" is one of the finest exercises in the world for reducing superfluous flesh. It is hard work that has to be maintained at high speed all day. Ships vie with each other in getting their coal aboard in record time, and even after the operation is finished the sailors still have a few more ounces of avoirdupois to work off in cleaning up the mess below decks. Usually three days are occupied in cleaning a vessel after a bout of "coal ship." On the other hand, oil-fuel ships perform the task in about three hours.

Doctors are asking themselves: "Is the fat a healthy fat, or an injurious parasitic growth?" If a hammock is splashed with oil fuel, all the scrubbing and boiling in the world will not prevent a hole from appearing in it, and if it eats through double-ply canvas, what will oil fuel accomplish in the case of human beings?

"Tanker" hands are noticing that after two or three voyages they begin to put on flesh.

FAMED FOR ITS MARASCHINO

Dalmatian Town of Sebenico Really Has Little Right to Other Claims to Honors.

Sebenico vainly boasts of being the Roman colony Sclum, where Claudius quartered his veterans, and so styles itself in public inscriptions and Latin documents. But Sclum stood farther south, near Salona, at a spot still marked by Roman remains.

It is to be feared that Sebenico had a sadly ignoble origin, says the Manchester Guardian. The name is said to be derived from a word that means the fort from whence handbills watched the sea for ships which they attacked and plundered. The little Dalmatian pirates' lair remained quite unknown until selected in the early Middle Ages by Croatian kings for their favorite residence. Apart from possession of a picturesque landlocked harbor, the only cathedral in the world built entirely of stone and metal, and the ancestral house of the Orsini, Sebenico has few claims to distinction. However, by some people Sebenico will always be held in high honor for being the place where they make maraschino, an insidious liquor distilled from small black cherries.

The Wrong Saint.
Children's propensity for getting names mixed was well illustrated a Sunday morning or two ago when little Richard, on the way to Sunday school with his mother and sister, met another little boy afflicted with St. Vitus' dance.

Richard was deeply impressed by the incident and asked his mother what was the matter with the little boy.

"Poor child," the sympathetic mother replied, "he has St. Vitus' dance."

Back at home, Richard rushed in to tell his father of the incidents of the morning and closed with the remark:

"And—and—and we saw a poor little boy who jerked all over. He had the Rltcomb Riley."

Only Fat Girls in His Office.
"I have found one employer whose 'bug' in hiring folks for his office is worse than the idea against bobbed heads and short skirts," lamented a young woman who was weary with hunting work.

"And what's that?"

"He won't hire any one—male or female—unless he has a fat, healthy, well-fed, well-cared-for look. I was talking to the girl who lets applicants in to see the boss. She was real sweet and kind and she told me I might as well not go in. I asked her why, and she confided to me that I was too pale, too delicate looking. This girl thinks it is just because he is known as an old tightwad and is selfish, and he doesn't want it said of him that even his office people look pinched and pale and ill-treated."—New York Sun.

A Day Dream.
"That was a smooth stock salesman in his just now."

"He was, indeed," said Mr. Dunwaffe. "He hadn't been talking five minutes before I saw myself stepping briskly into a bank to deposit a few hundred thousand dollars, then strolling around to my tailor to order a winter outfit of a dozen suits and making an engagement with a friend of mine in the motor business to look at the fall styles in limousines."

"What happened next?"

"Oh, I woke up, glancing hastily about to see if I was still sitting in the little old office and wished him 'good morning.'"—Birmingham Age Herald.

Naval Officers in Brawl.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Cherbourg, France, June 2.—Three United States navy officers from the supply ship Trinity, who were arrested following a brawl with French navy officers in a cafe, were released today and escorted to their ship under a guard of marines.

NEW DANCE HAS MADE HIT

Gothamites Take to Importation From London, Though It Seems Rather a Childish Pastime.

There's a new dance stunt in town. It's the balloon dance and it's from dear old London, don't you know. It's a bit of all right, too.

A few nights ago it was introduced at the Rendezvous—one of Broadway's most exclusive supper clubs. And it made a tremendous hit, says the New York World.

A toy balloon is tied to the ankle of each dancer of the fair sex and the idea is to get through a close-fitting fox-trot or a tiddle with the balloon still intact. That is the girl's idea.

The idea of the men dancers is to break as many balloons as possible without stepping out of the dance. On a crowded floor the balloons have about an equal chance as a snowball in—well, a warmer place than New York. However, a prize is offered to the woman who can emerge from the maze of the dance with her balloon still flying.

Any young lady at the Rendezvous actually won the prize. But the popping of the colored spheres reminded one of the popping of champagne corks.

Anyway, it's a great boon for the balloon manufacturers. For the dance floors of the average toffish sanctuary are so small that the only way to keep off one's partner's balloon is to step on her feet—and that is not very popular with the fair sex.

RETURNING TO SWORD PLAY

New York Children in Their Games, Seem to Have Abandoned "Modern Warfare."

Playwrights and theatrical producers predict the return of the costume play and the swashbuckling melodrama. But the youngsters of New York seem to have realized this prophecy in their games.

Wooden swords, umbrella rib daggers and crossbows have supplanted dummy rifles and barrel stave artillery pieces that were popularized by the World War.

Sword play, with hickory rapiers and fragile cross-wood cutlasses seem to have asserted a romantic appeal over infantry charges and vocal "bang bangs." The vacant lot is no longer no man's land, but a rock-strewn battlefield or a tin can infested moor, where Frankie and Johnny would "do each other in mortal combat as Spaulding and Dutchman in the lowlands."

There is more realism in the sword than in the pistol, with which one must say "Bang!" "Bang!" Rock piles have become castles after the fashion of the Arthurian legends and lance-armed knights guard drawbridges of planks or old doors over imitation moats.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

One of Great City's Tragedies.
An old-time tragedy of the Central Markets, Paris, has been recorded by the death in an advanced age of a once rich woman, who for many years made a poor living there overhauling garbage cans and selling anything of value she might be able to find therein. Her name was unknown, and for nearly half a century she was merely called "Princess." Fifty years ago it was fashionable for persons of high society in Paris to pass a riotous night in the cafes and stalls of the market. On one occasion a fashionable woman, one of a gay party, was robbed of money and jewels, presumably by her escort. Left penniless, she refused, for reasons easily surmisable, to communicate with her husband or her family in central France. Instead she sought employment and gradually fell into extreme poverty. She got her nickname owing to her inviolable habit, when asked about her former life, of replying: "Ask no questions; I am a princess from a far country."

Smiling Porches.
More houses are being built with inclosed porches than ever before; you may walk down long streets of dear little homes whose porches smile at you through tiny panes of glass. You pass medium-sized places with grounds, comfortable houses set back from the road, and large mansions—in every one somewhere you catch the glimpse of an enclosed porch room. Old-fashioned houses follow suit, and back of the rounded Colonial pillars are fitted small-paned glass partitions that inclose the porch as effectively as though it had been built that way in the beginning. In the summer these are lifted out, leaving the porch as before.—The Designer.

Canada Pushing Honey Industry.
It is expected that Ontario's honey crop next season will be marketed largely on the co-operative system, as a result of the activities of the committee appointed recently by the Ontario Bee Keepers' association, and with the assistance of the Ontario government. The honey will be graded and have a registered brand for the protection of consumers. Each package will have a distinguishing number, by which it can be traced back to the producer.

Snails in London Restaurants.
English officers who served in France during the war acquired in many cases a taste for frogs' legs and snails, hitherto unknown to London menus. When they returned home they demanded the same tidbits in London and now both frogs' legs and snails are conveyed daily from France to London by airplane. Some of the London restaurants are doing an enormous business in serving these two articles of food.

Mann's New Garage Open.
Mann's garage at 95-97 Broadway opened for business today. It is located in the handsome new building, work on which has continued, since last fall, and is well equipped for the storage of cars and the sale of gasoline, tires and tubes.

Uncle Eben.
"De man dat always greets everybody with a happy smile, no matter what his troubles is," said Uncle Eben, "ain't nuffin' but a good actor."

DATES FOR HOME BUREAU MEETINGS

A series of nutrition meetings has been arranged by the Ulster County Home Bureau at which Miss Byrd will speak on the subject of "Community Meal Planning," in which she will emphasize the planning of meals for picnics. The talks already given have related to family meal planning.

Meetings to be addressed by Miss Byrd during the next two weeks for which arrangements have been completed will be held as follows:

Hurley, Tuesday, June 6.
High Falls, Thursday, June 8.
Stone Ridge, Friday, June 9.
New Paltz, Thursday, June 15.
Milton, Friday, June 16.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Dainty Frock for Mother's Girl. 3856. Simplicity combined with the latest style features is pictured here. This model is pretty for net, embroidered voile, crepe de chine and taffeta. The skirt is mounted on a body lining, and the skirt is finished separately. Combinations of silk and serge, plaid and plain materials are nice for this.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 3 1/2 yards of 32 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12 cents in coin or stamps by The Freeman, Pattern Department, Roundout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer 1922 catalogue, containing 150 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

MISS MAHONEY IN AUTO CRASH

Being Treated in Ellis Hospital at Schenectady. Near Where Car Crashed Down Bank When Blinding Headlight Confused Driver.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Schenectady, June 2.—Roy Vrooman, aged 25, of Rexford, in company with Miss Agnes Mahoney of Kingston, who suffered internal injuries in an auto accident off Duaneburgh road is resting comfortably in the Ellis Hospital.

Miss Mahoney who was in the front seat with Vrooman left the hospital after her lacerations had been dressed, but will have to return regularly to the hospital for other treatments. The name of the other man and women in the automobile have not been divulged. The women were slightly hurt.

The machine went over a gravel pile when Vrooman was blinded by a piercing headlight. The car apparently turned end over going over the embankment of about six feet. Shortly after the accident, which happened about midnight, Elvin Kellogg, of 19 Elbert street, hearing cries from the field, discovered the wrecked car and took the occupants to the office of Dr. Arthur S. Fray on Broadway.

Vrooman fell to the floor unconscious and remained so until after midnight, having in the meantime been taken to the hospital.

Miss Mahoney showed much improvement today.

The Kingston Directory lists no one named Miss Agnes Mahoney but Mrs. John Doolin wife of the Strand newspaper has a sister by that name who visits here and who is also a sister of Mrs. Annie Raichle of this city.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES.

Ruth Silences Raspberry Chant for Time Being.

The eminent hard hurler George Herman Ruth, leaned against one of Rip Collins's fast ones in the seventh for a triple, scoring the tying and winning runs against the Red Sox. Therefore, the wild and untamed "razzberry" was conspicuous by its absence. Score 5 to 4.

A homer into the right field stands by Jacques Fournier gave the Cards a 3 to 2 victory over the Pirates, the Cards gaining in the chase for second place.

Nary a run in seventeen innings is the record of the Giants after being shut out yesterday by Fillmore, 2 to 0. The Braves scored both runs in the fifth when Douglas was found for a double by Beckel and singles by Ford and Fillmore and Groh obliged with an error on Nixon's tap.

George the Sizzler, dropped a pretty single into vacant outfield spot in the twelfth inning and Shorton scored from third with the run and broke up a pitching duel, Davis versus Faher.

The Reds took a running jump at the delivery at Alexander and rushed a big fellow to the wall in two and two-thirds innings, the Cubs losing, 6 to 1. Wingo furnished the feature with a homer over the wall in right.

The Indians again were out-batted by the Tigers but bunched their hits against Olsen and Stoner and won, 5 to 2. Cobb and Hellman remained on the suspended list.

STEEL JUMPS ON GARY STATEMENTS

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, June 2.—The increased earnings of the United States Steel Corporation and the declaration of Judge Gary before the Lockwood housing committee, that the steel corporation had an advantage over the independents of 33 a ton in delivering its products, led to excited buying of U. S. Steel common on the stock exchange today, sending the issue up 2 points to a new high for recent years of 193.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, June 2.—The stock market showed a generally strong tone at the opening today. U. S. Steel was unchanged at 109½. Baldwin Locomotive selling extended, was ½ higher at 116½. National Enamel and Stamp opened 2½ points higher at 52½. California Petroleum rose 1½, and Transcontinental Oil was ¾ higher at 18½. Southern Pacific was ¾ higher at 59½.

Although there was a good deal of irregularity during the forenoon, the most important changes were to higher figures. The greatest gain was made in National Enamel and Stamp, which rose four points to 54. Standard resumed its upward movement and had a quick advance of 2 points to 125½. In new high record for the year, Chandler Motors advanced 1½ to 76½. Midvale Steel fell from 41½ to 38½ and Republic Steel dropped from 76½ to 75½. The petroleum stocks made gains of about 1 point.

In the late afternoon the market became one of violent advances in many issues, the trading being accompanied by a good deal of excitement. U. S. Steel moved up to 110½, a new high for the year. California Petroleum which closed at 63 yesterday, rose to 69½. Peoria and Eastern rose over 4 points to 22½. The market closed irregular; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

To "Educate" Wine Drinkers.
English palates, long noted for their appreciation of fine old wines, are in danger of deterioration because of the lower price of vintages, according to a group of prominent wine merchants who propose an English "wine week" in emulation of the French custom. Wine, they declare, is no longer a luxury, as the lower price has brought it within reach of all.

The purposes of wine week, it is said, will be to educate the English taste for wines and also to instruct diners in the elementary rules and traditional usages of beverage selections. It is planned to gather a representative group of speakers and writers to sing the praises of wine and to tell those who would learn how to drink it. The merchants expect substantial assistance from the governments of wine-producing countries, such as France, Italy, Spain and Australia.

Interested in Big Ship.
As the Seydlitz, of the North German Lloyd steamed up the Hudson, she listed to leeward because 255 of her 256 cabin passengers wanted to get a look at the Leviathan. The one passenger who was indifferent was a German-American from Philadelphia, who claimed he had seen her before. Some of the new arrivals who had never laid eyes on the Leviathan could not be convinced that it was a vessel of any kind or name, declaring that no ship could be that big. One thrifty soul exclaimed: "And just think—I am told the Americans have paid $5,000 a day for the upkeep of der alte kasten (the old box)."—New York Evening Post.

Chorus Strike Ended Opera.
Silk stockings and new blouses were among the demands of the chorus girls which brought the opera season at Bayreuth, Bavaria, to an untimely end. One day the young women declared that they would not go on the stage in the evening unless their demands for higher wages and silk stockings, blouses, and shoes were complied with. The corporation of Bayreuth declared that it would not be blackmailed by a pack of girls, dismissed them on the ground that they had broken their contract, and closed the opera house.

The Boredom of Comfort.
"No one is ever bored unless he is comfortable. That's the great principle. There isn't time for it. You cannot be bored and something else at the same time."—From "Daddy" by E. F. Benson.

Beating Her to It.
The substance little husband was stealthily picking his own pockets before going to bed. "A brute of a wife beater, that's what I am," he chuckled softly.

COURT OF CLAIMS DISMISSES O'GRADY CLAIM

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, June 2.—A claim for $49,999 against the state made by Margaret O'Grady, widow of Thomas O'Grady, former member of the Buffalo police force, in connection with the famous Stellow murder case, was dismissed today by the state court of claims.

Charles F. Stellow was convicted in 1915 of the murder of Charles R. Phelps and Margaret Wolcott in Orleans county. Through the detective work of O'Grady, Stellow's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and finally he was restored to citizenship.

In dismissing the claim, the court held there was not sufficient proof of the character of services rendered by O'Grady.

BRITISH JOIN ULSTERITES IN REPELING INVASION.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Belfast, June 2.—A violent battle is in progress over an extensive front along the Ulster-Louth frontier between Republicans on one side and Ulster constabulary and British troops on the other, according to advices from "the front" this afternoon. The constables were being beaten back when the British troops were rushed to reinforce them.

Los Angeles May Get Olympiad.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, June 2.—Premier Poincare will preside at the opening session of the International Olympic committee on June 7, when a final decision will be taken as to whether Paris will retain the Olympic games. If Paris defaults, the games automatically will go to Los Angeles, Calif.

General Juan Vicente Gomez has been elected President of Venezuela, and the election has been ratified by the Venezuelan Congress.

Sent to Coventry.
The phrase "To send one to Coventry" means to take no notice of him. The story goes that the inhabitants of the city of Coventry, England, had, at one time, so great an aversion to soldiers that a woman seen speaking to one was at once tabooed. No intercourse whatever was allowed between the garrison and the town; hence when a soldier was sent to Coventry he was out of all social life outside barracks. Coventry, famous in the old days for watch-making, then silk weaving, then bicycle manufacturing, is now a center of the automobile industry.

BOY HAS QUEER AFFLICTION

Case of Hungarian Youngster Has Attracted the Attention of Spiritualists Everywhere.

Spiritualist circles in Hungary and elsewhere are reported to be greatly excited over the mysterious agencies which are apparently at work on a thirteen-year-old peasant boy, the son of a scavenger in the country town of Keoskenet. Since his earliest youth his simple family have been frightened to see the furniture moving when he was in the room and to hear whispers from empty corners. Since he passed his twelfth birthday these uncanny happenings are said to have taken a more serious aspect. Mysterious fires broke out in the house where he lived. The local authorities, after investigations, put down the cause of these fires to evaporation of naphtha in the soil. The superstitious villagers, however, were not satisfied, and John and his mother were obliged to leave the town and go to Budapest. There events repeated themselves. At night flames flickered on the bed where the boy slept with his cheeks burning in fever, and singed the pillows. Very soon no house in Budapest was willing to harbor the dangerous tenant, who seemed unconsciously to bring invisible and unwelcome guests. John is now in the house of a prominent Hungarian spiritualist, who hopes to solve the riddle and who claims to have discovered a new and brilliant medium for seances.

SHE WAS NOT A BRIDESMAID

Unfortunate Incident Also Marked the Permanent End of These Two Girls' Friendship.

"Oh, Grace, I was just coming along to see you! I want to know if you'll be my bridesmaid!"
"Oh, how lovely! Of course I will! What do you think I had better wear? What about a soft—but let's walk down here and talk it over. There's that idiotic little hore, Harry Tompkins, coming along, and I believe he's seen us. We don't want to talk about the great news to him. He's such a hopeless idiot!"

"I'm sorry," replied Maud, "but he's the man I'm going to marry!"

Incident Cured Him.
I first suffered quins of the heart during my grammar-school days. The cause was a dark-haired miss who sat about three rows from me. One day, during recess, when I was all alone in the room, I endeavoring to do something to please the maiden, took some flowers that were on the teacher's table and arranged them in the form of a large heart on the girl's desk. I still don't know what made me do it, but at any rate the teacher came in just as I was putting on the finishing touches. When the rest of the class came in she said, "I want you all to take a look at the artistic heart Archie has so artfully made on Irene's desk." Let me tell you that my love-sickness ended then and there.—Chicago Journal.

Yesterday and Today.
Edward Bok, the well-known writer and philanthropist of Philadelphia, said at a dinner party:

"When I was a boy people visited New England to see Longfellow and Emerson, Thoreau and Hawthorne. Today, however—"

Mr. Bok smiled:

"A sight-seeing automobile," he went on, "was trundling through the streets of Boston. The man with the megaphone was about to put the instrument to his lips when a young woman in a very short skirt twitched his coat tail and said impatiently:

"Say, enide, let up on that heavy stuff. We've all heard a lot about the splendid Oliver Wendell Holmes of Boston. Can't you show us inside a few of them for a change?"

REPORT EXAGGERATED
"Grace, I'm ashamed of you. I distinctly heard Jack Higgins kiss you twice out in the entry."

"It isn't true; there's a horrid echo in that entry."

Lady-Bugs in Convention.
A convention of lady-bugs is as rare as it is interesting. Three weeks ago a trapper stumbled upon a mass of these tiny creatures, tens of thousands of them huddled together, dormant with the cold, on a sunny side of Glacier peak, in the Cascades, at an altitude of 7,304 feet. The collection of these little beetles covered the rocks over an area equal to a city lot. Every little creature was tightly packed with the creatures.

Profitable Pursuit.
"Some men make money out of lumber, others out of wool, still others out of cotton, corn or wheat."

"A man can make money out of almost anything nowadays if he knows how."

"That's true."

"I've just met a member of the medical profession who told me he made $10,000 last year out of adenoids!"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Too Much.
A very stout man mounted the scales in a drugstore the other day, and dropped a penny in the slot. There was some wait, and the clanking and rattling of the levers of the contraption, and the pointer finally came to rest somewhere not far from the 300 mark.

There was an unseen witness to the ceremony, and as the fat man woefully contemplated the result, the voice of a wee, small boy piped up from behind him:

"Say, Mister, how many times did it go around?"

Fish Found in Odd Places.
An Ontario reader referring to our account of the fish seen in Saskatchewan in the cattle foot-holes after a rain, says he had a similar experience several years ago. He says that he saw numbers of fish on the ground in foot-marks immediately after a heavy warm rain. The fish were about two inches long and must have come down with the rain. He was living in the mountains in Tennessee. It was in the year of 1886 or 1887.—Toronto Globe.

Ends Odd Family Compact.
The will of Miss Phoebe E. Mills, whose death at the age of eighty-three removed the last survivor of a strange compact made sixty years ago by seven brothers and sisters never to wed, but to work for the common interest of all, distributed an estate estimated to exceed $500,000 among various churches and charitable institutions in the United States.

Aerial Lines in Europe.
Twenty aerial lines, with a total length of 6,000 miles, are in operation in Europe. France holds first place with lines covering 2,800 miles. Germany comes second with 2,000 miles, and England third. In addition to these lines there are many local lines, in which Italy leads with 1,200 miles.

The Youngest Soldier Killed.
Representative Isaac Siegal, of New York, recently made claim in the house of representatives that Albert Cohen, whose parents now live in Memphis, Tenn., was the youngest soldier to be killed in action in France. He was killed in action on October 5, 1918, while serving with the 26th infantry. At the time of his enlistment he was thirteen years and six months old.

TO ONE IN FLANDERS

As on that day, among the red leaves blowing,
We lay and watched the wild hawks wheel and swoop,
You looked at me—said, like this water flowing,
Time and creed went past;
And old earth sang to us her old wild songs.

As on that day—alone, 'mid dead leaves blowing,
I stand and watch the dark ships seaward glide,
And wonder if the Flemish autumn's crowing
Red, low-singing leaves
Where, like stopped water, your wild splendor died.

Do you regret, in fields of ghost-flowers blowing,
The sterner love that cleaved our passion here?
Or do you dream my tears are dewdrops glowing
Round your unmarked sleep?
And do you wake, and weep—I wonder, Dear?
—Constance Lindsay Skinner, in the North American Review.

FREAK POTATOES IN ENGLAND

Season Has Been Prolific of Remarkable Formations Which Are Credited to Peculiar Weather.

A potato freak, quite new to botanists, has been dug up in Wheatthampstead, Hertfordshire. The tuber proper, formed early in the season, has developed five matriclidal offspring. They have grown inside the skin of the old tuber, completely eating out its contents. They have broken a slit in the skin, but only one of the five is at all inside. The appearance is of five eggs inside an oval basket or nest. It has been a year of freak potatoes, because in the forcing weather the tubers sprouted early and formed a new generation. These button potatoes often stuck out from the older potatoes in all sorts of queer shapes. A two-pound potato was dug up at Sutton Bridge, in Lincolnshire, which had a close resemblance to a rather crude doll, with arms, legs, head and eyes complete. But it is no new thing for the new potatoes to grow inside the parent.

EXPENSIVE PRESCRIPTION
"Do you know anything that's good for the stomach?"
"I am no authority, but I understand that food is highly recommended."

Church Sent by Parcel Post.
It is almost unbelievable that a whole church was sent by parcel post, and yet it is so, and in northern California, in a place called Orleans, the church is now standing. The lumber was delivered by parcel post, as also the shingles, the bell, the stained glass for the windows, even a stove, the Bible, the prayer books, and hymnals. In winter it takes from two days to two and one-half, when the snow is on the ground, to reach Orleans from the railroad station, which is several miles away. Seven miles of the journey have to be made on skis, and the miles which carry the burdens have to have snowshoes specially made for them. It is a herculean task to transport freight, but the Harco Indians were not daunted by such trifles, and after materials arrived at the station, or rather post office, they got busy, and now they have a cozy church in which to worship.

Lincoln had suggested in a rather offhand way that he would marry her. Apparently regret set in rather soon, for he made several attempts to gracefully withdraw from the compact. But Mary, with prophetic vision, had an idea that he would one day reach the White House and she was determined to be his mistress.

"Kidnap" Camera.
When you inquire about the big camera the station photographer uses in taking the 1½-inch square photographs for the 50-trip family ticket he says, "Oh, it is a special one we invented years ago for kidnapping."

"How do you number them?"
"It is a six-exposure plate, and each of these spaces on the sheet of paper corresponds to one on the plate. Each plate is numbered. We used to use this camera for kidnapping."

Then you swallow your pride and ask boldly:
"What do you mean—kidnaping?"
He laughs kindly at your ignorance. "Why, you know," he says. "We take our camera and go out on the street and see a little boy and take his picture. We get his name and address. By and by, after we develop the picture, we go around to his home and show it to his mother. If she likes the picture, she buys one. That's kidnapping."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Furs.

Trapping is being carried on more extensively this season than for the last ten years, and the catch is abnormal, reports the manager of the Winnipeg Fur Auction Sales company.

Economic laws work as rigidly in the far north as elsewhere. A shortage of any commodity runs prices up. Then high prices lure larger production. With the supply increased, price slumps. Then production falls off.

It's the eternal merry-go-round, with speculators playing the turn in the market.

Me Found Himself.
The marine had tumbled off a motorcycle, and he was dead to the world when they carried him to the hospital. The next morning he woke up just as the doctor came around to see how the patient was getting along.

"Well, well, my man," said the doctor cheerily, "how did you find yourself this morning?"

"I opened my eyes," said the Gyrene, "look a good look at the bed—saw some guy lying in it—and there I was!"—The Leatherneck.

GOING NATURE "ONE-BETTER"

Man Has Been Engaged in Work of Altering Domestic Animals for Many Centuries.

What a curious thing it is to realize that a St. Bernard, a Pekinese, and a Skye terrier all three come from a common wild stock!

Man has been altering domestic animals of every kind for centuries past. He has taken the common pigeon and invented something like 60 distinct varieties, while hundreds of different sorts of fowls have come from the original jungle bird of Ceylon.

Curious experiments have been made in coloring birds by feeding them on certain foods. One man obtained pigeons of a beautiful red by putting in their food a chemical with the terrible name of "methyltrab

ORIGIN OF GOLF

Scotch Shepherd Said to Have Originated the Game.

With His Crook as a Brasso and Stone for a Ball He Made the Circuit of the Links.

Six hundred years and more ago an old shepherd in Scotland grew tired of doing nothing all day but look after his sheep so he amused himself by knocking a stone about with his crook. It interested him to see how far he could knock that little stone and how he could best get it out when it fell into grassy hollows or among other stones. He chose a round stone as possible and put a distinguishing mark upon it.

One day he mentioned this pastime to the shepherd in the next field, who tried it, too. Then they made some of the places more difficult and measured off definite points and goals. At night, on their homeward way they would swap yarns. They measured off their holes in a circle, because in that way they could keep watch over their sheep, and they marked their holes with a tag of wool attached to a stake. Soon all the shepherds of the neighborhood were following their example.

This, says the Christian Science Monitor, is one version of the origin of golf. It was the game of shepherds in the beginning; but we find it the game of kings as well. We have an account of the train of James VI of Scotland and I of England playing on English soil. The first match on record was when the duke of York, afterward James II of England, and an Edinburgh shoemaker defended Scotland's claim against two English noblemen. Shortly after this match became more common, with prizes of clubs with silver bands, 12 balls or a simple medal.

By Scottish laws we can trace the history of the game from very early times. In 1458 the Scottish parliament enacted that "because golf diverts attention from archery, it must be cried down," and it seems to have been necessary to renew many times a law that golf must not be played on Sunday.

With a praiseworthy eye to economy, James I in 1618, disturbed because "no small quantities of gold and silver are transported yearly out of his highness' kingdom of Scotland for buying of golf balls," conferred a monopoly of golf ball manufacture upon James Melville for 21 years, but added that he must not charge more than four shillings. This same King James appointed William Mayne, Bower Burgess of Edinburgh, club maker to his highness "during all the days of his lifetime."

The implements early became as good as those of today, with the exception of the balls. The first real balls were of leather, stuffed with feathers; then they were made of gutta percha with a smooth surface. It was soon discovered, however, that indentations were an aid to rotations, and the balls were hammered with the chisel end of a hammer. Later, of course, the indentations were made in the mold.

As far as records show, golf was first known in America in New York, but tradition states it was played on the Pacific coast by a band of old sea captains in the sixteenth century. When women began to play is not known, but times have changed since the following quotation was true: "Men play the game, the boys the clubs convey, and lovely women give the prize away."

The Night Garden.

In order to have a garden really fascinating and glowing at night—in the darkness or in the moonlight—quantities of white flowers should be used.

As night comes on the haunting, garcolored flowers fade into the darkness and become part of it, while the pure white flowers stand forth gloriously against the background of night.

White varieties of tulips, iris, peonies, sweet alyssum, roses, lilies, foxgloves, hollyhocks, dahlias, zinnias, ageratum, and Japanese anemones will give a wonderful night effect in the garden from April until November. The most satisfactory white shrubs are white lilacs, spiraea, deutzias, Japanese snowballs, hydrangeas, and others.

Big Forest Travel.

In 1920 more than 4,000,000 people visited their 152 national forests for recreation. But one feature not generally known, says the American Forestry association, is the fact that each year there are serious losses from two causes. The first loss is through forest fires started by careless campers. It aggregates millions of dollars annually. The more serious is actual life loss due to the lack of sanitary necessities in forest camp grounds. The federal government has never appropriated a dollar for such work. Forester Greeley is asking for $10,000 for this purpose.

Little Known Fish.

Recent ocean discoveries indicate that there are many kinds of deep sea fish still uncaught. It is said that there are 600 kinds of fish to be found off the coast of Florida, and a great aquarium is to be opened soon at Miami for their study.

MORE GOOD THINGS

A most appetizing salad and one very appropriate for picnic occasions is:

Herring and Potato Salad.—Take one cupful of herring cut in dice, three cupfuls of cooked diced potatoes, one teaspoonful of onion juice, two tablespoonfuls of minced green peppers, four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a dash of paprika and a few grains of salt. Make a French dressing of oil and vinegar and let the fish and potato stand in it for an hour. Then combine the fish, potato and pile the mixture upon the platter, surrounded with shredded cabbage mixed with a salad dressing. Sprinkle with chopped green peppers and garnish with whole herring.

Turban of Smoked Salmon.—Take one and one-fourth cupfuls of minced smoked salmon, three-fourths of a cupful of soft bread crumbs, four tablespoonfuls of butter, pepper, two eggs, one tablespoonful of minced parsley and a few drops of onion juice. Soak the salmon to remove the excess of salt, then mince fine. Cook the crumbs and milk together to a smooth paste, add butter, parsley and a few drops of onion juice and turn over the fish. Beat the egg yolks, add to the mixture and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a ring mold, surround by boiling water and bake until firm, about twenty-five minutes. Unfold and fill the center with well-seasoned string beans and serve with a cream or egg sauce.

Fish Batter Cakes.—Take one-half cupful of shredded codfish, one cupful of pastry flour, two-thirds of a cupful of water, two egg yolks, one-half tablespoonful of melted butter and two egg whites. Freshen the fish. Put the flour into a bowl, add the water, gradually beating well, then the codfish. Beat the yolks, add, then add the stiffly beaten whites. Add the melted butter and drop by tablespoonfuls into hot fat. Have the fat hot enough to brown a cube of bread in sixty seconds.

Spanish Onions.—

"And now, children," asked the teacher, at the end of the lesson, "can you tell me the English national flower?"

"The rose!" came in an eager chorus from her pupils.

"And the French?"

"Fleur de Lis!" was the response, after some hesitation.

"And the Spanish?"

Dead silence. The pupils looked blankly at each other. Then a hand was waved frantically in the air, and a shrill voice piped out: "Onions, miss."

Weather Prophets.—

If it is raining and the owl screeches, a change for the better will shortly ensue, but should the peacock screech, bad weather is to come or continue. If rain threatens, snails seek shelter at once.

Conscience Bothered Them.—

The rain falls upon the unjust as well as the just but the unjust do not enjoy it because of their irritating conscience. A just man has peace with his conscience.

Kellogg's Bran is nature's own relief from constipation!

You must not take chances with constipation when statistics tell you that nine-tenths of all sickness can be traced to it! You must get permanent relief; you must drive constipation out of your system!

Realize that pills and cathartics, at best, can only afford temporary relief, while they are irritating to the delicate intestinal tract.

Now—compare the action of these pills and cathartics with the natural and wholesome effect of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled. Science knows of no such wonderful sweeper, cleanser and purifier of the bowels as Kellogg's Bran, yet it is simply nature's food. Bran's effect is certain and relief permanent if at least two tablespoonfuls are eaten daily. Chronic cases should eat as much more as is necessary for results. Taken consistently, Kellogg's Bran will drive constipation from the system. Your physician will endorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation!

Eat Kellogg's Bran either as a delicious and nutritious cereal, or sprinkle it over your favorite cereal. Eat it in many other foods which are made more appetizing by its nut-like flavor! Kellogg's Bran pancakes are the best you ever tasted! Use it in raisin bread or muffins, gravies, macaroons, pancakes, etc. (Recipes on package.)

The big thing is to get Kellogg's Bran into your system quickly! Get it at your grocer's.

P. S.—Pimples are caused by constipation. Kellogg's Bran will clear them up and also free your breath from intestinal odors.

CAN NOT ESCAPE

No Chance for Murderer Who Uses Poison.

Science Has Made That Form of Killing a Lost Art, Unlike the Days of Old.

Ever since medieval times a silent but none the less determined war has been going on between the subtle art of poisoning and the more subtle art of discovering and locating poisons in the human body.

In the old days fortunes awaited those who could prepare some concoction that would remove people from this world without leaving traces of how it was done. Poisoning, as understood by a Catherine de Medici, was a grand art. Today it is a lost art, for science has practically won the long fight and is now able to discover and classify every known poison even months after the victim has succumbed to its effects.

Within the last generation almost every kind of poison has come within the scope of the ever-increasing experience of medico-legal experts who have been called to give evidence in important cases—from the hyoscymine of the Crippen case to the arsenical flypaper of the Seddon affair.

Arsenic, antimony, prussic acid, carbolic acid, oxalic acid, mercury, belladonna, opium, heroin, morphin, calabar bean, croton seed, nitric acid, pyridine that most deadly poison found in minute quantities in dirty tobacco pipes—all have been traced, tabulated and chained by the patient, emotionless detective, Science.

So highly has the work of scientific detection been developed that the presence of arsenic may be discovered even years after it has been taken. No more delicate tests in chemistry, and at the same time no more infallible ones, can be used than the tests for arsenic and antimony. In the former poison the tests are so severe that one part in sixty millions can be revealed.

It is to the Borgia that one must go to hear about the incredibly subtle poisons which could not be detected, but the light of modern science proves that much which is credited to that family's knowledge of the art of poisoning was really impossible of accomplishment unless we concede—which is just possible—that they knew more about toxicology than do modern savants.

There was one particular poison which the Borgias are credited with using which has remained a secret. It was tasteless, could kill the victim quickly or leisurely, as the poisoner wished, and it left no trace discernable to the chemists of that time.

The lists of nobles and dignitaries of the church who died by this subtle means is believed to be formidable. It was used in two ways, powder and liquid, and its method of manufacture was related by an obscure scientist of the period.

The powder form of the poison was white like flour, with a taste like sugar. It was called Contarella. Its composition was never known, but the liquid was prepared in the following way:

A wild boar was caught, and to it was administered a strong dose of arsenic. As soon as the poison began to take effect the boar was hung up by the heels. Convulsions came on, and a froth, which ran from its jaws, was collected in a silver dish and then was transferred to a bottle which, after some Contarella was added, was hermetically sealed. This was kept for a certain time and the result was the notorious poison.

Certain it is that no poison known today is secret. Chemistry and science can provide the means of detection, and can often supply the antidote.—Overseas Daily Mail.

BAD HUBBY GOOD FOR WRITER

Wife Who Gives Advice on Managing Spouse Gets Some Ideas From Her Mate.

"Yes, indeed," said the Greenwich Villager with a husband as she reached for the matches, according to the New York Sun. "I've placed a lot of things since I married. Especially with the women's magazines."

"I don't see how you ever get so much. You just seem to turn them out with a crank."

"There is a crank involved," admitted the villager, "but unfortunately he's getting better tempered every day."

"Cyril" asked the friend with interest. "How nice that you're improving him. He did have a fairly bad disposition."

"That's why I married him," sighed the villager.

"Really?" exclaimed the friend. "That seems a rather odd reason."

"Oh, no; it was quite sensible," protested the villager. "You see, I've always done a lot of articles on how to get on with your husband, and I thought I could get a lot of ideas from Cyril. And I have. I've studied his rages and found out just what caused them and how to make him stop them, and then I've written him up. But now I know so well how to manage Cyril that he doesn't get into rages any more—and really, I don't see how I can afford to go to Scotland this summer."

"Still," comforted the friend, "it must be rather nice to think that you get on so well together. Isn't there copy in that?"

"A little," admitted the villager, "but it's the unhappy marriages the women are interested in. But, of course, there's always some copy you can get out of a man—even a good-tempered one."

"Such as—?" prodded the friend.

"Oh—all the foolish things they do," explained the villager. "The ridiculous way they waste their money, and their general helplessness, and their self-centeredness and all that. I'm doing a series along those lines for the Woman's Magazine. Of course, Cyril doesn't know it. But whenever the magazine comes he reads those articles and sputters. He says there never was such a brute and a fool as that woman describes. Declares it can't be true, because no self-respecting woman would live with him. And then I get scared and take the magazine away from him."

"Afraid he'll recognize himself, I suppose?" said the friend.

"Oh, no, indeed!" returned the villager. "Cyril would never do that! But I'm frightened to death he'll—"

"What?" pressed the friend, breathlessly.

"Reform," said the villager.

Stage Illusions.

Lady Bell complained, in a letter to the Times, of the way actors destroy stage illusion. There was nothing new in this. The taking of "calls" has been denounced since most of us can remember. But the number of letters which followed Lady Bell's suggestion that the theater, in this period of decadence, is taken by many with a seriousness that promises better things some day. Not the most serious grudge the actors their applause at the end of the performance, but it is certainly unwelcome to see a row of smiling faces on the stage a moment after the curtain has fallen on a scene of terror, grief or melancholy in which those very faces have worn far different expressions. Whether the illusion is destroyed is another question. Perhaps it depends on temperament. There are some lovers of the theater who are impervious to all its absurd conventions. To these even the back of the stage after a performance on a cold winter's night is still fairyland.—London Times Weekly.

Important to Know.

A fire had broken out in a factory in the country, and a young village constable was sent to make inquiries. After questioning the manager he asked to see the man who was responsible for the electric lights. The manager stated that the electric switches were under his control.

Policeman—Then you are the man who lights up the electric affair?

Manager—That is so.

Policeman (excitedly)—Now, be careful how you answer my next question, 'cos if it ain't satisfactory it will be used against you as evidence. When you lighted the electric light last night where did you throw the match?"

Priceless Painting in Old Chest.

An altar piece the center panel of which is alleged to have been painted by Leonardo da Vinci and the side panels by Michelangelo has been discovered in a chest at the Hungarian castle of Papa, belonging to the late Count Maurice Esterhazy's estate.

Experts are divided as to the authenticity of the painting. If the present owner of the castle, Count Thomas Esterhazy, has his claims sustained the altar piece will be the only known example of the combined work of these two famous painters. It will be worth a fabulous amount which experts hesitate to name.

Vitamines as a Cure-All.

Possibly the present tendency to extol vitamins as a cure-all is drawing to its close. The United States public health service reports that efforts during the year to discover the unidentified food substance whose absence from the diet causes pellagra have excluded two of the three known vitamins. The search for the missing element is being steadily narrowed.

The Weakest Finger.

The third finger on the left hand, on which the engagement and wedding rings are worn, is anatomically the weakest of the fingers. Pianists have to give the third finger twice as much drill as the others.

Connecticut Nature Studies.

Mrs. Edith A. Smith has a cat that knows a thing or two. One day last week the cat brought in a garter snake. It left it in a closet off the back pantry. Mrs. Smith in looking over some articles in the closet that afternoon came across the snake, which was in an almost dormant condition. It had life enough, however, to wiggle, and with the first wiggle Mrs. Smith almost fainted away. This same cat last summer brought in a black snake. The tail of the snake was coiled around the cat's neck. The cat had hold of the snake in the middle and had all it could do to drag it into the house.—Farmington Press.

"Moss Growers' League."

A heard on the chin keeps the shaving money in.

That's the new slogan of the latest London freak society, the Hirsute Half Hundred, says the New York Sun.

That is to say, they call themselves the Hirsute Half Hundred. The rest of London calls them simply Moss Growers.

Barbers are contemptuous in regard to these gentlemen who have disregarded conventions and adopted the latest in streamline beards.

But the hairy ones laugh, and say: "Aha, but think, a shave each day costs a dime. We save 365 dimes a year—now go ahead and laugh at us."

A Disadvantage.

City Man—I suppose you find your automobile a great improvement over your old horse, farmer.

Old Farmer—Wal, in some ways, yes, and in other ways, no. I can't go to sleep on my way home from town and wake up in the barnyard, like I could with old Dobbin.

He Has a Big Head.

A full-grown buck antelope is smaller than any adult specimen of our American deer, and quite different from any of them in form, says the American Forestry Magazine. It has a big head, which is held erect upon a short, thickset neck.

Burn Was Hazy.

A Richmond banker was approached by a negro minister whose father had served his family in slave days. The old man was a little more progressive than the ordinary negro pastor of the South and interested himself not only in the spiritual welfare of his flock, but in their worldly welfare as well. It was his custom, therefore, to lecture weekly on current events and his next talk was to deal with the subject of investments and securities. "Marzo Henry," he said, "I've got to talk to you on the subject of investments and securities. I've got to tell you, please, what's the difference between a common, a preferred and a stock?"—Wall Street Journal.

He Would Like to Know.

An official of the village improvement society in New Jersey tells of a note received from a Japanese of an inquiring turn of mind. The subject of the inquiry is one that is familiar to most parts of the world, but no doubt the community of which it was made felt flattered by this evidence of its popularity. The note read: "The honorable society are asked in what way do they rid themselves of him the much troublesome mosquito? How do they approach him in his house among the reeds and marshes, so as to remove him effectively from the dangers that he does to people of good minds whose skins he must puncture? All this I would like so much to know."

MORE IN SIBERIA

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Copenhagen, June 2.—The Japanese are extending their military occupation of Siberia, according to word received here today from Moscow.

Soviet officials at Moscow declare that Japanese troops are advancing along the Manchurian Railway, that they are patrolling the city of Khabarovsk and that they have taken up new positions in the Siberian maritime provinces.

PLAN RESCUSSION OF HUDSON NAVIGATION CO.

According to reports current in financial and transportation circles in Albany, the Hudson Navigation Company will soon be completely reorganized, provided the United States District Court directs the sale of the company's property which includes steamboats and real estate. The company has been in the hands of receivers for some time.

The plan for reorganization, it is said, contemplates the elimination of the Charles W. Morse interests and the individuals formulating it are said to have the backing of a responsible firm of bankers.

In 1908 the Hudson Navigation Company executed a trust mortgage to the Union Trust Company of Albany to secure an issue of $4,000,000 in bonds, covered by the real estate and steamboats of the company. This was supplemented in 1913 by another mortgage, and in 1915 by still another covering additional property. The company, having issued bonds to the amount of $2,400,000 defaulted in the payment of the interest in August, 1921, and the bondholders requested the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company, successors to the Union Trust Company, to foreclose the mortgage and proceedings were begun immediately, directed toward sale under court decree.

LIFE-SAVERS ALL!

Women Aid Men in Heroic Work of Rescue.

Stirring Stories Told of Coast Guard Detachment of Crosswell, Little Village on English Coast.

Crosswell, near Newcastle-on-Tyne, on a particularly wild and stormy part of the Northumberland coast of England, has a coast guard detachment augmented by volunteer life-savers who have made historic in maritime history a place which is barely on the map. Several members of the crew are women who rush to the lifeboat house to assist in the launching in answer to the warning rockets off shore. Three of the women, whose ages total 214 years, invariably are on hand.

Mrs. Margaret Armstrong, who is seventy-five years old; Mrs. William Brown, wife of the lifeboat coxswain, and Mrs. James Brown, wife of the deputy coxswain, never fail to answer a call for help. Mrs. Armstrong has not missed a service launch since 1874. She can take a time with the best of the men.

On one occasion Mrs. Armstrong tramped five miles along the storm-bound coast from Crosswell to Newbiggin to obtain rocket apparatus for the rescue of the crew of a Swedish steamship. She previously had helped to form a living chain to rescue some of the men hurled from a swamped boat and was almost exhausted before starting her long tramp. The coast is low and sandy and footing is difficult in the best of weather. Her clothes were torn by the storm, and on reaching the coast guard station at Newbiggin she was too exhausted to tell what she wanted. The guardsmen realized her mission, however, and hurried back with the apparatus.

Volunteers are never asked for; they make for the beach—brave men and women, too. The children even endeavor to lend a hand. There have been times when the men, before swinging into the boat, have wished all the people good-by. Each time the women have given a cheer to keep up the spirits of their men.

Many times the Crosswell lifeboat has grounded on a rock, under a towering sea which threatened to break and swamp it, but with the boat rising a stout pull has shot it ahead. Many times a moment's faltering might have cost the lives of all hands. But at Crosswell they take their seats in the boat without a murmur. In perfect order the life craft is rolled into the seething ocean. Nerve and experience are pitted against peril and they win—with such motherhood as the lifeboat women of Crosswell.—Ship News.

Hawaiian Fish Stories.

Fish stories are prevalent in Hawaii, as elsewhere. Some of them are even believed. For instance, the Honolulu press recently carried the yarn of a fish unknown to science being caught in Hawaiian waters. The strange specimen was caught in 1,200 feet of water about 18 miles off Waianae beach, island of Oahu, by a Japanese fisherman. It was on exhibition for some time at the Aiea fish markets. The fish weighed about 150 pounds, and was flat and almost circular in shape. Its general silvery hue was relieved with fins and snout of scarlet, and the dorsal, about 18 inches long, was spotted with big white dots. Prof. C. H. Edmondson of the University of Hawaii, an authority on fish, could not classify the find. So great was the curiosity aroused at the local market that a sharp-minded fellow erected a booth and charged a small fee for a peek at the freak. He did a thriving business.

Lark's Intrepidity.

Commenting on the intrepidity of the sky-lark, a correspondent in the "Ways of the World" column of the London Morning Post writes: "He also sings in the roar of battle." Often in the fields of France and Belgium have I heard the lark gayly carolling overhead, the while shell and bullets were flying around.

"One occasion remains firmly in my recollection. About midday on the 9th of May, during the height of the battle variously called Festubert, Richebourg, etc., a lark was singing contentedly not many yards above our head, while we, lying within a hundred yards of the German breastworks, could not move a finger without a hail of machine-gun bullets descending upon us, while high explosive shells were bursting around the British front line. Truly the lark is no bag of nerves."

Non-Burning Wood.

Wood that will not burn is, of course, a much-to-be-desired thing. It is reported that not long ago there was tested on a considerable scale in England an American invention for rendering wood nonflammable. It appears that the sap is first withdrawn from the wood by evaporation in heated vacuum chambers. Then a fire-proofing solution is forced into the pores of the timber under hydraulic pressure. It is claimed that wood thus treated resists decay as well as fire.—Washington Star.

Wonders.

Roet (showing hunting trophies)—I tell you, my boy, I had many a hairbreadth escape from death while getting these together.

Guest—Very interesting. You must come to my place some time and see my stamp collection.—The Bits.

ACCORD.

Accord, June 1.—The Sunday school convention which was held last Sunday at the M. E. Church, was very successful, both as to the quality of the program and as to the attendance. The addresses by the Revs. W. W. Churchill, L. M.

Braam, Prof. Goodrich, Attorney H. W. Coons and Messrs. Cornell and Raschke were all here, each discussing the need of religious education from a different viewpoint and each stressing the great importance of such education. "No one who is ignorant of the Scriptures is fully educated." A very pleasing feature of the morning session was a solo by Miss Caroline Christman, which was exceptionally fine. Officers of the Town Sunday School Association were elected as follows: President, John W. Enderly; vice president, Lester Coddington; secretary-treasurer, Stanley F. Kelder.

There will be practice for Children's Day on Saturday afternoon, June 3 at 2 o'clock, in the Accord school house for the children of the Reformed Church Sunday school. Because of this practice the boys and girls will not meet at the parsonage this week. The date for that meeting will be announced later.

Communion will be observed by the Reformed Church on Sunday, June 4, at Mettachabonts.

Miss Ida Stern, who is spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Myron Markle, is entertaining friends from New York city and Portchester.

The Car Has Come

The Columbia Light Six

All The Power You'll Ever Need

Thoroughly dependable, highly refined; a smooth and silent running six-cylinder "Red Seal" Continental motor.

Six Cylinders At The Price of Four

A continuous flow of power at all driving speeds provides a smoothness of action found only in good cars.

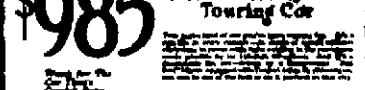

First In Traffic

Quick acceleration which means speedy get-a-way, easy pickup, keeps you out of traffic jams.

More Miles From Each Gallon

Proven economy of operation, saving many gallons of gas and oil, provides maximum dependable mileage at minimum cost.

$985 For A Real Six-Cylinder Touring Car

Here is superior six-cylinder performance, thoroughly tried and tested, and offered to you at a four-cylinder price.

Here is a high-powered, light-weight Six at the price of the average four-cylinder car. It is the first specialized unit Six that has ever been marketed at anywhere near so low a price—a car that many a well-informed automobile man said could never be built and sold for less than $1000.

This new Six is standard from top to tires. Every unit is the product of a nationally known specialized manufacturer. Every part is doubly certified—first by its maker and second by the Columbia engineers who have built it into the completed car.

We ask you to judge the Columbia Light Six by performance rather than by price. Consider it as an improved type of dependable transportation. That means that you should see it for yourself—and without delay. Phone for an early demonstration.

You can appreciate the surface beauty of this new Light Six at a glance, while the more closely you examine it the better you will realize the inner quality that extends to the least expected details.

SAMSONVILLE.

Samsonville, June 1.—At "The Lilacs," the home of George Davis in Samsonville were happy doings on the evening of Decoration Day. Their place has been named after a grove of giant lilac bushes, in the center of which a clearing has been made that forms a perfect summer house. Miss Edna Davis the hostess, served dainty refreshments with ice cream, and added as a novelty entertainment, the fun and practical demonstration of health exercises as illustrated by phonograph records, which she has recently received. Among friends present were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barley with their little daughter Verna May, the Misses Leona and Leah Shurtler and Karl Termahien, the artist who last year spent his vacation with the Kelders at Olive Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Penny of Kingston spent a few days with relatives in Palentown and Samsonville, returning home Tuesday evening.

The Strength to Win

Science has proved our health, our nerve and gland powers and our digestions depend to a large extent upon certain elements called vitamins in the food we eat. Canned, processed and milled foods are poor in vitamins. To be strong and healthy, food rich in vitamins is necessary.

Start today supplementing your diet with the richest of all vitamin foods—Vegex. All the stimulating life-giving vitamins of twelve pounds of rich yeast are concentrated in one pound of Vegex. Vegex is a delicious savory food that can be served in fifty ways.

Buy a 30c, 55c or $1.00 jar at your grocer or druggist today. If after using it for one week you are not entirely satisfied with the results, bring back the partly empty jar and receive your money back in full.

Call on your dealer today and ask for Vegex. If he has not yet received his stock send us your name and we will send you a generous sample of Vegex free and prepaid.

MIAMI VALLEY

DEFIES FLOOD

Conservancy Dams Give Absolute and Permanent Immunity.

PEOPLE AT LAST FEEL SAFE

Protective Works, Built With $34,000,000 Bond Issue, Considered Model by Leading Engineers—Dayton Flood of 1913, Which Cost 400 Lives and $100,000,000 in Property, Aroused People to Organize to Prevent Recurrence—Enormous Dams Were Built.

Absolute and permanent immunity from floods is afforded the residents of the Miami valley through the functioning of the conservancy dams under flood conditions. Had it not been for the conservancy work, the valley would have been menaced twice in April. With torrential rains weather conditions resembled the dreadful days of March, 1913, when the entire valley was inundated and the waters raged through the streets of Dayton, O., and other towns from the mouth of the river to its source. The water then was 12 feet deep on Main street in Dayton. Thousands of people were marooned for three days and nights in attics and on roofs. More than 400 lives were lost, and $100,000,000 worth of property was destroyed.

After this horror the people organized to prevent a recurrence. Within 60 days after the flood Dayton alone raised a fund of $2,000,000, 25,000 citizens contributing. Committees were appointed, engineers employed and the job was started.

Conservancy Act Passed in 1914.

It soon developed that the undertaking was too great for the individual communities to carry out alone, and that the cooperative action of the entire valley was necessary.

To permit the people of the flooded counties to cooperate in such an endeavor it was necessary to obtain enabling legislation. The conservancy act of Ohio was passed in February, 1914.

The law was an emergency act, and consequently was not subject to referendum, which provision certainly saved the measure from defeat at the hands of the people, who began to count the cost as memory of the disaster faded. The conservancy act was attacked in the courts from every possible angle, but every objection was decided adversely to the plaintiff. Requests for copies of the act have been received from nearly every state and many foreign countries where flood prevention work is contemplated.

Money for the work was secured through the sale of bonds, secured by the value of benefits to property in the counties affected. Sixty thousand pieces of property belonging to 40,000 owners were appraised for benefits, which benefits totaled $77,000,000.

Bonds to the amount of $34,000,000 were sold. These were to mature at different dates and all were to be retired in 1949, as a portion was taken up each year.

The plan of financing the work proved equitable and practical and has been incorporated in the laws of other states undertaking similar effort.

Fine Dams Built.

The Miami conservancy plan of flood prevention is the retarding basin-channel improvement method. Enormous dams are built across the Great Miami river, and its tributaries, which together will impound 847,000 acre-feet of water under maximum flooding conditions. This is 40 per cent greater than the flood of 1913, and is believed to be greater than any possible future flood.

Each of the five dams included in the conservancy system is pierced at the base by a concrete conduit which allows the normal flow of the stream to enter the lower channels. These conduits, when full, carry all the water the channels can contain; in flood times the water backs up behind the dams and between the flanking hills, in some streams for many miles.

The dams and basins constitute the essential features of the system, and with retaining banks, channel enlargement and improvement and the removal of islands make up the whole of the simple but gigantic work.

Some idea of the magnitude of the conservancy work is gained by comparison with commonplace engineering. The concrete, if put into a road, would make a 16-foot concrete highway from Cincinnati to Toledo. The earth moved, if put into ordinary two-horse dirt wagons, would fill a string of wagons long enough to go around the world six times. To move such an amount would take twice the number of horses and mules in the United States.

Early in April 200 members of the American Society of Civil Engineers came to Dayton in their annual convention for the purpose of inspecting the completed work of the conservancy improvement. They did this because of the many applications the individual members had received from all parts of the world for information about flood prevention measures.

People in communities everywhere that are subject to inundation from flood streams, or that are threatened by the possibility of flood are giving attention to preventive measures.

Get Aside Portion of Income.

There are various paths that lead to fortune, but if you expect to acquire a competence through your own efforts there is only one starting-point—the regular saving of a portion of your income.—T. D. MacGregor.

THE OFFICE CAT

Just So.

"Full many a flower is born to blush unseen."

"That's right. Since paint got so plentiful."

When a girl admits she didn't mean what she said about refusing to take back her promise to change her mind, she was probably mistaken in the first place and doesn't really mean it.

Between Girls.

A girlie-girl in knickers Meets another looking cute. And then the first girl knickers. While the other follows suit.

They shake their bobbed hair curly. Displaying signs of joy. Then one hails the other garb. With this remark: "Oh, boy."

So They Do Say.

When some people die they go to everlasting bliss, while others go to everlasting blisters.

"Walter, what are these black specks in my cereal?"

"I don't know, boss, but I spec maybe they're some of these vitamins you see advertised."

Our Shortest Scenario.

Scene I.

Clerk in shoe store is waiting on well dressed lady.

Caption: "One of your feet is larger than the other, madam." Lady leaves store in great indignation.

Scene II.

Clerk in another shoe store is waiting on lady in Scene I.

Caption: "One of your feet is smaller than the other, madam." Lady buys pair of shoes and leaves store highly pleased.

Bowlers resemble flappers in one respect. They both roll their own.

Stranger, pause as you pass by. As you are now, so once was I. As I am now, so you must be. Step on the gas and follow me.

A lot can be said about the saxophone but most of it would be unprintable.

Never Notice the Difference. "Why is it you always wear a derby hat?"

"So my wife won't complain about my extravagance whenever I buy a new one."

President Harding has endorsed "Be-kind-to-animals" week. Harding is a good scout and knows how to stand in with the men, alright.

It is true that the chronic shopper doesn't buy much, but just look at all the practice she furnishes for the clerks.

Go Up in Smoke.

"Played this put-and-take game last night."

"How did you make out?"

"Played a motorcycle game."

"A motorcycle game?"

"Put-put-put-put-put."

WEST PARK.

Mrs. John Travis and Mrs. Joseph Francis of Peekskill spent the week end with relatives here.

Frank Delapine of Poughkeepsie spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jones.

Charles Miller of Highland is doing carpenter work at the B. Frankel boarding house.

Something Worth While.

"If," says the Louisiana Journal, "instead of boring holes in the earth for oil, everybody would dig a hole and plant a fruit tree there would be millions in it. A fruit tree is almost a sure thing. An oil well is a guess."
